Red Army Charges On After Clearing Nazis From Donets

Strike Toward Dnieperopetrovsk Following Capture of Stalino and Many Other Cities

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Soviet Army smashed in today to capture Stalino, steel-making centre, wiped out the entire German salient in the important Donets Basin and flung its might against the retreating German army along a 600-mile front north to Smolensk, Moscow announced tonight.

Even as 224 Moscow guns thundered their salute for Stalino, tank spearheads were stabbing forty miles northwest of the city—named for Marshal Joseph Stalin—so swiftly they captured German planes still parked on an airfield and seized trainloads of supplies.

In the Donets Basin area the Soviet forces were reported to be 100 miles from Dnieperopetrovsk, on the Dnieper River line, to which the Germans appeared to be retreating. Far to the north, near captured Konotop, the Red Army slashed to Borzna, 100 miles from Kiev, key city on the Dnieper.

The Germans, now menaced by the capitulation of Italy, the sagging of the Balkans and threat of an Allied invasion from the West, appeared to be falling back to their last ditch line in Russia, abandoning gains won in more than two bitter years of war.

Capture of the Donets Basin returned to Russia an area rich in mines and factories and straightened the line south from Kharkov to the Sea of Azov.

MORE THAN 200 TOWNS CAPTURED

The Moscow midnight communique said more than 200 towns and hamlets were captured in the day's advances around Stalino, south of Bryansk, west of Kharkov and toward Smolensk.

Stalino fell after fierce street fighting only today, the communique said, although the Germans said earlier they had abandoned the city and destroyed its installations. The Russians said they captured large dumps of ammunition, many guns and mortars and other war materials in the city.

North of the city other Soviet columns, clearing out the Donets Basin, routed the Germans from Krasnoarmeisokoye, where nineteen German planes were found intact on the abandoned airfield. Several railway trains, complete with military cargo, were captured.

Borzna, northwest of Bakhmach, was captured in the push toward

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

LONDON, Sept. 8—Allied air forces operating in great strength have made prolonged attacks on the Naples area, smashing airfields and cutting railways.

British, Canadian and United States pilots bombed steadily for thirty-six hours—an awe-inspiring demonstration of aerial might, says The Times Algiers correspondent, that can not have been without its effect on the Italian mind. In many places no enemy aircraft appeared. British tanks have been landed at points along the Calabrian coast and good progress by the Eighth Army into the interior of the country continues.

The German retreat from the Donets industrial area proceeds, despite desperate bids to prevent the Red Army from outflanking them. A big battle has been raging south and west of Kharkov where the Nazi high command is attempting to save its rearguards. Soviet troops advancing into the Northern Ukraine are only ten miles from Bakhmach, strategically important railway junction on the enemy's front.

The Red Army is also threatening Mariupol on the Sea of Azov, says The Times Stockholm correspondent. Unless the Nazis leave Mariupol quickly they are likely to be cut off, as at Taganrog. On this southern battlefront the Germans have made no strong stand. There is a marked threat to their forces around Izyum, where, unless they retreat in time, they may experience another disaster.

Parachute Bombs Drop Among Japanese Planes

High-powered fragmentation bombs attached to parachutes are being used with telling effect in the Allied campaign to oust the Japanese from their few remaining bases in New Guinea. This photograph, flown from the battle area, shows some of the missiles dropping among dispersed twin-engined planes on the Japanese airdrome at Dagua.

Italy's Surrender Is Hitler's Disaster; Nazis Cry "Betrayal"

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Allies moved implacably toward the destruction or possible entrapment of every German in Italy tonight with the abrupt collapse of the southern end of the Axis.

Catastrophe at last had caught Hitler by the throat and the German High Command faced the greatest strategic disaster since September, 1918, when the Central Powers' Balkan front began to disintegrate.

As the war thus entered a new and decisive phase for the Allies in the West leaflets were dropped to the Italian people—presumably at the direction of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—calling upon them to have their revenge upon the Germans and to aid the Allies in beating them down.

Italians were instructed in "battle orders" to give every assistance to United Nations troops and under no circumstances to aid any Nazi.

These instructions, too, went out over the Italian radio.

The Germans themselves apparently believed that huge Allied armies already were on the move to spring a cunningly-timed trap. Their broadcasts reported 200 ships, forming two convoys presumably laden with Allied troops and their equipment, were steaming toward Italy for the last campaigns of that peninsula.

And the Government of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio gave strong indication that it would order Italian troops to march with British, Canadians and Americans if that became necessary to expel the Germans from Italian territory.

DETERMINED TO CHASE OUT ENEMY

"Italians will resist . . . if attacked from any other (non-Allied) quarter" said a proclamation of Marshal Badoglio as heard by Algiers radio listeners.

How studied was the Allied plan for extermination of every shadow of German power in Italy was indicated by the fact that Badoglio signed an unconditional surrender five days before it was announced.

The delay in making the surrender public seemed to mean that Gen. Eisenhower had calmly withheld the news of the greatest Allied victory of the war in order to make the best disposition of his forces to finish the job.

There were a number of suggestions as to who might take over the occupation of Italy and the final destruction of German strength there. Clearly the Germans had no intention of committing large forces south of Rome, but they may make a fight in the region of the Po in the north.

To the occupation force presumably would fall the lot of seizing the person of Benito Mussolini against the day when judgment may be passed upon the man, who, of all Italians, was an enemy of the Allies and the leader who thrust his unhappy country into alliance with Hitler.

There was some hint, however, that this day of Allied justice might never come. Reports from Turkey

New Troops Land Near Naples to Trap Nazis After Italy Surrenders

More Allied Operations Officially Announced; Others Are Reported

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (AP).—Allied troops landed early today in the Naples area, a third of the way up the Italian boot, a few hours after the surrender of Italy was announced.

Occupation of the bomb-battered area presumably places Allied forces behind at least some of the German troops retreating from Southern Italy.

The Allied announcement said merely that "further operations have started on the Italian mainland in the vicinity of Naples."

General Dwight D. Eisenhower granted Italy a military armistice on terms of unconditional surrender yesterday, and Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio read the announcement to his people on the Rome radio.

There was no official indication of the make-up of the landing parties, but a Tunis radio broadcast last night said powerful British, Canadian and American armies participated.

Naples, in peace time a city of almost 1,000,000 population, is a vital link in Italy's north-south railway communications and a major supply port. Rising from the shore in the form of an amphitheatre, it has been pounded long and hard by Allied bombers seeking to check its use for military purposes of the Axis.

The one-sentence announcement of the new operations came just twelve hours after that of the Italian surrender. No details were immediately available.

TWO HUNDRED MILES BETWEEN BATTLEFIELDS

Some 200 miles separate the zone of operations in Calabria, where the British Eighth Army is pushing ahead, and the new battlefield created by the invasion in the Naples area.

From Naples it is approximately eighty-three airline miles in a northeasterly direction across the Italian mainland to the Adriatic Sea.

Multiple Allied landings upon the west coast of the peninsula were reported by two Swedish newspapers and an Italian language broadcast from the Allied-controlled Tunis radio, as President Roosevelt told the American people "We must drive the Germans out of Italy."

The Swedish papers reported Al-

Carry Air Attack Into Eighth Day

Intensive Hammering Of Airfields Continues

LONDON, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (AP).—An official announcement early today reported that Allied bombers from British bases again thrust out last night to attack targets in enemy-occupied sections of Europe.

Obviously building toward an eventual climax in this theatre, like the one which yesterday found Italy on her knees in surrender, the night bombers continued the intensive hammering which went steadily forward in daylight yesterday. Objectives of the night bombers were not immediately disclosed.

Italy's capitulation, which the air battering from Britain materially hastened by hampering both aerial and ground reinforcements, will in turn give impetus to the western campaign, permitting closer concentration of Allied airpower on the Germans' crumbling European fortress.

Italian air bases, in addition to providing an advanced striking point against Germany from the south, are a likely terminus for shuttle bombing from Britain. R.A.F. and American heavy bombers have already shuttled much farther to North Africa.

Carrying the northern air attack into the seventh straight day, R.A.F.

Germans Fight On At Foggia

Apparently Hope to Use Big Airfield

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP).—Axis airfield at Foggia, comprising what is believed to be the only remaining important German air base in Southern Italy, were pounded heavily Tuesday by Allied airmen as the British-Canadian Eighth Army continued moving along coastal roads in Southern Calabria, Allied Headquarters announced today.

When the surrender of the Italian military forces was announced later today, the British and Canadian invaders had expanded their hold on the boot of the Italian Peninsula to more than seventy-six miles of the coast.

In addition to the concentrated attacks on Foggia, other Allied planes, in great numbers, yesterday roamed the skies over Northern Calabria almost without opposition as they blasted railways, highways, troop detachments and other targets. American four-engined bombers alone encountered any enemy opposition. They shot down eleven of more than fifty Axis planes which attempted to give battle over the Foggia air strips.

Believe Fall Of Italy Will Shorten War

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (CP).—The capitulation of Italy was hailed jubilantly in Washington today as the beginning of the final stage of the war in Europe and the greatest triumph of Allied arms so far in the conflict.

Military observers interpreted the downfall of the junior member of the Axis in Europe as a profound event, certain to shorten the war's duration, not only in Europe but in the Pacific as well. As seen from here, it lays Germany open to a rain of bombs this Fall and Winter and a grand assault by land next Spring, sooner if German morale cracks in the softening-up process.

Politically, it was suggested here the most significant angle to the capitulation was the inclusion of Russia among the Allied Governments approving the terms, evidence of an ever-increasing spirit of co-operation within the Kremlin.

Although Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt conferred together and with British and American officers during the day, they made no official comment, preferring to let Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief in the Mediterranean area, tell the story.

Unofficially, however, Washington pulled out all the stops in attempting to interpret the event. Some members of Congress predicted the downfall of Germany in 1943, but this opinion found little, if any, confirmation in military circles that still lean to the belief that an internal crackup of Germany is an extremely remote possibility this year, necessitating determined fighting in 1944.

Aides reported that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt received today's news matter-of-factly. They had known, of course, of the Italian Government's acceptance of armistice

Means Freedom For Prisoners

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—There are at least 70,000 British and Canadian [illegible] 1,200 Americans for whom the Italian capitulation means freedom.

"It can be assumed that the unconditional surrender accepted by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower took into account the immediate release of all prisoners of war and that they will reach Allied hands as soon as conditions allow," the War Office said.

High British officers among the prisoners include Air Marshal Owen T. Boyd and Maj.-Gen. Carton de Wiart.

Also prisoners are Larry Allen and Godfrey H. P. Anderson, Associated Press war correspondents.

November 1 Last Date to Mail Parcels

Will Arrive For Christmas

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—Faced with the task of moving more Christmas mail to more Canadians in more corners of the world than ever before, the Post Office Department announced today the deadline for parcel mailings will be November 1.

Parcels mailed by that date—unless there is a mad rush at the last moment—will be delivered to Canadians in Sicily, Italy, Ceylon, North Africa, the United Kingdom, the Aleutians, the West Indies or wherever else Canadians may be.

The mailing deadline is ten days earlier than in 1942.

Officials said Christmas mailings overseas last year amounted to 8,500,000 pounds, compared with 5,500,000 pounds in the previous year. This year, with more Canadian servicemen and women overseas, they anticipate a total mail load of about 10,000,000 pounds.

"We are suggesting that Canadians planning to get Christmas mail to their friends overseas get

Reconsider Status Of Italians Held in Canadian Camps

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—Justice Department officials said today that reconsideration of the status of about 260 Italian nationals now held in internment in Canada will be necessary as a result of the Italian capitulation announced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief.

Officials said there are no Italians [illegible] in Canada. Of the persons interned, some 200 are captured merchant seamen; the others are Italian-Canadians interned for various reasons.

Fate of Three Italian Islands Still in Doubt

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (AP).—The immediate fate of three lesser prizes from Italy's surrender—Sardinia, Rhodes and the Dodecanese Island group in the Eastern Mediterranean—apparently remained in doubt early today.

The islands were included in the surrender, but in the case of Sardinia in particular, the problem was whether the Nazis were there in sufficent strength to attempt to retain it.

For a number of weeks, Allied fighter bombers roamed the skies over Sardinia almost daily, but they seldom found military targets worth the trouble of bombing. It seemed that most of the once-formidable forces of Nazi bombers and fighters had been removed to escape blistering Allied attacks.

Speculate on Future Role Of Canadians

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—The Italian surrender tonight posed a question regarding future military operations in that theatre and raised speculation whether there would be a new disposition of the Canadian forces which were in the forefront of the invasion of the mainland last Friday.

Naturally, no official comment on plans for the use of the Canadians is forthcoming and, pending clarification of the military situation in Italy, guesses as to how the Allied armies, of which the Canadian First Division forms a part, might need to be redistributed constitute a hazardous business.

Whatever happens in a military sense as a result of Italy's action, the Canadians are ready and able to do their part.

Sees Japan's End

CANBERRA, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (CP).—Prime Minister John Curtin said today the collapse of Italian resistance points the way to victory in Europe and foreshadows the defeat of Japan. "Nazi Germany faces unconditional surrender which will be delayed only to the extent that the people in Germany continue to suffer the overlordship of the Nazi Party," he said.

BULLETINS

EXPECT ALLIED PLANES

LONDON, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (CP).—The Swiss radio reported today that large forces of the American Seventh Army had landed on the Tyrrhenian coast of Southwest Italy and also to the north at Leghorn. The broadcast, recorded by Reuter's, added that "hundreds of Allied planes are about to land on Italian airfields."

FLEW TO ITALY

LONDON, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (CP).—London morning newspapers today quoted an Algiers radio that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew to the Italian mainland Sunday and met Marshal Pietro Badoglio for final discussions on Italy's surrender.

REPORT AMERICANS LAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (AP).—Merrill Mueller, National Broadcasting Company correspondent, reported in a broadcast from Allied Headquarters in North Africa at 12:19 a.m., C.D.T., today that the American Seventh Army has landed at Naples.

JAPAN'S PLANS UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP).—A Domei dispatch broadcast by Radio Tokio said tonight that official Japanese quarters declared "Japan's war policy remains unaffected by the latest development in the European theatre of war." The Japanese determination to fight is unshaken, the dispatch said.

Nazis Set Up Government For Il Duce

LONDON, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (CP).—A proclamation read over the German radio announced the establishment of a National Fascist Italian Government in the name of Benito Mussolini, Reuter's News Agency said today.

The German Breslau radio, in a broadcast to Italy, said the government had been created to "save the honor of Italy." It appealed to Italian soldiers to refuse to surrender to the Allies and ended its transmission by playing the Fascist hymn "Giovanezza."

Whether Mussolini, last reported under arrest in Italy, had reached Berlin or whether Germany was simply setting up a facade as tribute to the fallen Duce was not made clear.

An Ankara dispatch said Mussolini was suffering from cancer and that physicians had said he was beyond help.

Several former Fascist Party leaders were believing to have reached Germany after Mussolini's fall and some German attempt to set up his own Italian "government-in-exile" has been expected.

Japan "Regrets" Italy's Defeat

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Tokio radio, in a broadcast recorded by United States Government monitors, told the Japanese people today that Italy had surrendered unconditionally to the Allies and that the Japanese Government "deems this most regretful."

Nevertheless, Japan is resolved to "crush America and Britain to the very end," thus putting Emperor Hirohito "at ease," the broadcast said.

Italians Fought German Forces

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP).—The story of a bloody battle between German and Italian troops three days before the Allied invasion of Italy was revealed today by an R.A.F. officer.

The officer, who visited the hilly [illegible] the fighting took place, said an Italian told him 200 Germans and 100 Italians were killed or wounded.

The Italian was quoted as saying the fighting started when Italian troops refused to oppose the Allies.

MEANING NOW CLEAR

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP).—A few days ago the Rome radio promised the Italian people that "help can be expected soon from an unexpected source." Now the meaning is clear. The Italians meant help from the Allies against the Germans.

MUCH DAMAGE

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., Sept. 8 (AP).—Eighty per cent of Japanese military installations on Marcus Island, 1,200 miles southeast of Tokio, probably were destroyed by an aircraft carrier task force in the attack September 1, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Admiral Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, issued a communique which said the first wave of the attack apparently caught the enemy completely by surprise.

"Our losses totaled two fighters and one torpedo plane."

Allied Submarine and Air Blockade Grips Balkans

ISTANBUL, Sept. 8 (AP).—An Allied submarine and air blockade, bracketing the Black Sea and Aegean entrances to the Dardanelles, throttled German military efforts in the Lower Balkans today as the satellite nations there, faced with Italy's surrender, pondered continuation of the war or throwing themselves on the mercy of the United Nations.

With Italian soldiers supposedly throwing down their arms all through the Balkan region, Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary were left to their own resources, and what few troops the Germans could spare to face revenge-hungry Yugoslav and Greek guerrillas.

Because of weakened overland routes through Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece, the Germans rely strongly on sea traffic to build up gasoline, oil and other vital military stores at forward Greek and Aegean defence positions which might come under Allied attack.

The overland routes are used to carry the troops which cannot be shipped through Turkey's neutral waters and are continually being disrupted by Yugoslav and Greek guerrillas.

As the hour of Italy's doom was striking, opposition members of the Bulgarian Sobranje (Parliament) raised their voices against the collaborationist government and dictatorship of Premier Bodgan Philov.

A message from Hitler was read at the session. Opposition protests were roused by the Government's decision to postpone convoking a new Parliament to choose a regency to reign over the country during the minority of six-year-old King Simeon, son of the late King Boris.

The Cabinet's proposal will be voted on by the Sobranje tomorrow. Among candidates for the regency council are the Queen mother, whose home country, Italy, bowed to superior Allied might today.

But the German masters were apparently in too much difficulty of their own to bother with the petty details of satellite politics and strife.

During the last two years, the Allied blockade has kept a potentially enormous Black Sea-Aegean traffic to a mere 300,000 registered tons and has sunk 20 per cent of that.

This record hangs upon the vigilance of Soviet submarines and air

Britons Take Fall of Italy Calmly; Hope for Early End

LONDON, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (AP).—Britain received the news of the fall of Italy calmly last night, with the man-in-the-street taking it as a signal for the early cleanup of the Continent.

[illegible] in London—just generally broader [illegible]. The B.B.C. kept up victory broadcasts, while cheering theatre crowds were told of the Italian fall.

London's Little Italy in Soho buzzed with general satisfaction.

"Every Italian seems to have the same thought," said a cafe proprietor. "One part of him feels great relief; the other still patriotic enough to feel pain at what happened to his country."

Newspapers hailed the fall of Italy as the breakup of the Axis.

"The Axis is no more," said The Daily Herald. "That once-terrifying term was meaningless at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The effect in Germany will be profound. It will immensely weaken the Fuehrer's authority. It will hasten his end."

"Much agony and much bloodshed lie ahead of us before the war in Europe is over," commented The News-Chronicle. "But here in actuality is the end of one of our enemies."

The Yorkshire Post said "The first white flag has gone up from the enemy capital. The Rome-Berlin Axis is shattered. The victory is an Allied victory but we think the Americans will be the first to recognize that it was men of the British Commonwealth who held the pass and cleared the road.

"Italy's first, decisive failure was at sea. Let us now pay tribute to

Italian Ship Captains Asked to Save Vessels

Given Their Instructions for Sailing By Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 8 (AP).—Italian naval and merchant marine commanders were asked today by the Allied naval commander in chief in the Mediterranean, Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, to avoid letting their ships fall into German hands and to sail immediately for Allied ports.

A message, broadcast by the United Nations in Algiers, gave the Italians detailed instructions as to their course of action and added:

"Terminate hostilities against the United Nations. The German armed forces have become the open enemies of the Italian people and intend to seize your ships.

"Take heed, therefore, that you do not scuttle your ships or allow them to be captured.

"The forces of the United Nations are watching out to receive you and protect you. Save your ships and follow the directions now given to you by the United Nations."

The Italian capitulation and the Allied message evoked a strong possibility that the Allies might obtain possession and use of both the Italian navy and merchant fleet, estimated at 300 vessels, totaling 1,500,000 tons.

MAY RELEASE ALLIED VESSELS

An authoritative naval source at Allied headquarters also pointed out that the capitulation might mean the release of United Nations vessels for service outside the Mediterranean — quite possibly in the Pacific.

He estimated that the Italian navy, despite severe losses in the last two years, consists of seven battleships, three aircraft carriers under construction, two heavy cruisers, both of which are damaged, nine light cruisers with two more nearing completion, some twenty-five destroyers and about sixty submarines.

Besides these, the Italians have a considerable number of smaller craft, including torpedo boats, escort vessels, mine sweepers, trawlers and "E" boats. Light, fast motor craft have always been an Italian specialty.

In his message, Admiral Cunningham instructed the Italians in the Mediterranean to sail to a place safe from the interference of the German armed forces.

"Sail if you can to North Africa or Gibraltar, to Tripoli or Malta, to Haifa or Palestine or to Sicily, there to await the outcome of events," he advised.

In a special appeal to merchant seamen, Admiral Cunningham said: "If you first preserve your ships intact and afterwards satisfy the authorities of the United Nations that you will loyally co-operate with them, there will be opportunities for further seagoing employment for you on Italian ships."

Of the 300 Italian merchant ships believed still harbored in Mediterranean ports, most imposing are some sixty passenger vessels, aggregating 500,000 tons, notably the luxury liners Rex and Conte di Savoia.

(A Washington announcement recently, however, said a liner of the Conte di Savoia class was bombed and sunk in an Italian port.)

IMPORTANT FREIGHT TONNAGE

Perhaps even more important, however, from the standpoint of the Allies are about 250 freighters totaling 700,000 tons and sixty oil tankers aggregating 300,000 tons. Besides, there are innumerable coasters, schooners, fishing craft.

As important as the navy and merchant ships was the fact that the Allies have gained possession of great, undamaged Italian ports.

Allied air power concentrated its efforts principally on the Italian railroads and airdromes and left the ports undamaged in most instances.

Big Increase In 1943 Thefts Of Narcotics

Results From Scarcity Of Illegal Supplies

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—Drug addicts driven to desperation by the cut-off in illicit supplies due to the vigilance of Canadian authorities and war developments are responsible for an extraordinary—and increasing—series of thefts, Narcotics Division authorities said today.

Recently, Col. C. H. L. Sharman, chief of the division, said it was estimated the number of drug addicts in Canada had dropped from 8,000 to 4,000 in a decade.

Col. Sharman said there had been a marked increase in thefts of narcotics in Canada, "in direct ratio to the increasing scarcity in underworld circles."

In the last prewar year—1938—there were forty-six narcotic robberies. There were fifty-one in 1939, fifty-seven in 1940, and seventy-nine each in 1941 and 1942. In the first six months of this year 121 such robberies occurred, with thirty-seven attempted robberies in addition.

SITUATION GROWS STEADILY WORSE

"For the later months of this year, the figures are even worse," said Colonel Sharman.

While they attempt to rob drug stores, warehouses and similar establishments, the addicts often pin their hopes on the theft of physicians' medical bags. Such thefts rose from twenty-seven in all in 1938 to eighty-four in the first six months of 1943.

Attention is being given this particular type of crime by seeking the co-operation of doctors in seeing that drugs were not left in such bags, especially in automobiles.

With continued limited legal supplies, officials said the prices of illicit drugs have risen to staggering heights. A druggist might sell on prescription an ounce of morphine or heroin for about $10. There are 437 grains in an ounce and the price paid in the illicit market on the Pacific Coast is $20 a grain. This means an illicit value of $8,700 for something worth $10 in the legal trade.

Air Attack

medium bombers raided Nazi airbases at Lille-Vendeville and Lille-Nord. All three are in France. Nine enemy fighters were downed in these raids. Five Allied fighters were lost.

CANADIANS PLAY ACTIVE PART

An R.C.A.F. communique said Canadian Spitfires played an "active part" in the daylight offensive.

In the morning they penetrated sixty miles into France, covering the attack on the Vitry-en-Artois airfield. They shot down one of two ME-109's attempting to break the fighter ring around the bombers.

Other Canadian Spitfires provided escort for the attacks on the Lille airfields.

In the afternoon, Canadian Spitfires swept the Rouen-St. Omer-Poix area in support of a bombing of the Abbeville marshalling yards. In the evening they escorted medium bombers attacking the Boulogne area.

No Canadian planes were missing.

Tuesday night R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes carried out night attacks on airfields and railways in Northern France and Belgium. No Canadian planes were missing.

LARGEST FLEET OF SPITFIRES

The largest fleet of Spitfires ever used by the R.A.F. Fighter Command on one operation escorted bombers on the Lille and Vitry-en-Artois attacks and started one of the war's biggest dogfights.

One squadron saw more than ninety German fighters. A Polish Spitfire wing covering the American medium bombers shot down six Nazi planes and damaged many more.

A separate force of R.A.F. Typhoons gave the Mardyck Airfield near Dunkerque its third pasting in seven days.

There was no confirmation of the noon Paris radio report that American bombers had raided Amiens and Abbeville again, but toward dusk coastal observers reported more formations of medium bombers streaming back across the Channel from attacks still unannounced.

Medium and fighter bombers in less than ten days had about completed the coverage of the Nazis' main French airfields and appeared to be starting the circuit again before the bases could be restored to operation. Lille-Vendeville was hit on August 31 and Lille-Nord only last Friday. Altogether, probably thirty bases were blasted.

Key railroad yards have taken a similar beating. Rouen, Abbeville, Serqueux and Amiens were each bombed twice in a week, in addition to Munich. Important Nazi railroad channel into Italy, hit by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers Monday night.

Brazil Was Given Chance to Approve

Hitler Orders Reorganization

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—Hitler has ordered a complete reorganization of Germany's bomb-hampered war production, the German radio reported today in a broadcast of a decree dated September 2.

Wider powers were given Albert Speer, Minister for Armament and Productions, who was placed in charge of all Nazi war production.

Nazi Minister of Economics Dr. Walter Funk was delegated the responsibility for "the general trend of economic policy, for supply of the civilian population, for currency problems, for foreign trade, and for financing German economy and the economy of protectorates." Funk was called into the central planning committee.

"War events have made necessary further concentration regarding organization and management of German war economies," said the broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

The radio said the powers of Reichsmarshal Goering and Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop were not infringed by the new arrangement.

Continue to Gain in New Guinea Area

Less Than Five Miles Northeast of Lae Base

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 9 (Thursday) (AP).—Australians, breaking through weak Japanese patrols, are continuing to advance along the coast less than five miles northeast of Lae, New Guinea, Allied Headquarters said today.

The Japanese sent planes over the New Guinea mountains to oppose the Allied operations and five were shot down.

The pressure on Salamaua, south of Lae, was maintained with sharp fighting at Bobdubi, five miles south of that air base.

At Lae, where Japanese strong points have been pounded into ruins in repeated heavy air attacks, ninety-six more tons of explosives have been dropped, headquarters reported.

Twenty Japanese planes appeared over the Darwin, Australia, area and fourteen were downed or damaged.

In the Solomons, the American air force made a heavy raid on Southern Bougainville, site of the big enemy air base of Kahili. Five enemy planes were downed.

terms five days ago, but could not be certain that the Nazis would not be able to prevent Marshal Badoglio from issuing his proclamation.

There was general speculation that Mr. Churchill, who already has been here a month, might continue his stay until some of the questions arising from the capitulation are answered.

Another matter for Churchill-Roosevelt deliberations is what to do with Mussolini, presuming he is delivered into Allied hands. This might be a subject, too, for consideration at the meeting with Premier Stalin, which Mr. Roosevelt indicated yesterday had about been arranged.

Russian Front

Kiev as 1,000 Germans fell before the advancing Russians, and stores of military goods were captured.

On the Bryansk front Soviet forces swept up through the forests to capture Navlya, thirty miles south of Bryansk, penetrating the flank and rear of the Germans. Twelve hundred Nazi soldiers were killed and twenty-five guns captured.

West and southwest of Kharkov another 1,200 Germans were killed and thirty-two tanks disabled.

Stalin, in a special order of the day, announced the recapture of Stalino and the Donets Basin.

GREATEST VICTORY SINCE KHARKOV

This greatest Russian victory since Kharkov toppled Russia's twelth largest city of nearly 500,000, which the Germans described as the "Essen of the Soviet Union" when they first overran Stalino on October 21, 1941, when their war with Russia was four months old.

Stalino then became the German Command's main headquarters for the entire southern front, and served as such until recently.

The Germans attempted to explain their defeat with the time-worn descriptives of "shortening the line" and "elastic defence."

Hard fighting was expected for both Dnieperopetrovsk and Zaporozhe, key to the Crimea, forty miles south of Dnieperopetrovsk.

The first Autumn rains already have fallen in the Northern Ukraine and these are expected to bog the roads in that area soon. But in the South Ukraine and the Donets Basin, several more weeks of hard, dry weather are normal.

All along the 600-mile front from the Smolensk area to the Sea of Azov, the Russians were declared driving ahead. In the Northern Ukraine the capture of Chestnobudka placed Soviet vanguards within seventy-five miles of the Pripet Marshes—a part of the Germans' east wall.

Presentation of a colored tablecloth with floral design to Mrs. Muriel Boyes (nee Armstrong) marked the opening meeting of the season of the Zelotes Club. The president, Miss Suzanne Aller was in the chair, and the presentation took place at 301 Union Building. At the business meeting plans were made for a party to be held on September 18, when proceeds will be devoted to the club activities, including work on layettes and knitting for the forces and prisoners of war.

Pilots in Battle of Britain Still Winning Honors in Air

Written for The Canadian Press
By FLT. LIEUT. BASIL DEAN, R.C.A.F.

FIGHTER COMMAND, Somewhere in England, Sept. 8 (CP).—There are still some of the few left, some of those hard-fighting combat pilots of Battle of Britain days, but mostly it is a new brood of pilots who fly from the air bases hereabouts in Britain's Fighter Command.

Some of the Canadians who fought with honor and glory in those grim days three years ago are still flying. Wing Cmdr. D. B. Russell, D.F.C., of Montreal, who now leads an R.C.A.F. Spitfire wing in Britain, was then P.O. Dal Russell, and a member of Canada's No. 1 fighter squadron which arrived in England in June, 1940, just in time to get trained for the fierce tests of August and September of that year. Russell's old commanding officer, Ernie McNab, now is Group Captain Ernest McNab, D.F.C., of Regina, commander of an R.C.A.F. fighter station.

In Sicily, Wing Cmdr. Stanley Turner, D.F.C. and bar, of Toronto, led the R.C.A.F.'s City of Windsor fighter squadron through the island campaign. In 1940 he was a flight commander in the R.A.F.'s famed "All-Canadian" squadron led by Wing Cmdr. Douglas Bader, D.S.O., D.F.C., which destroyed sixty-three enemy aircraft during the Battle of Britain and shared three with other squadrons.

Its achievements during the Battle of Britain, indeed, brought from the air officer commanding the group in which it was serving at the time a message which said that its efficiency as a squadron was "equal, if not superior, to any squadron in the R.A.F."

FIRST CANADIAN ACE OF WAR

Greatest pilot of the "All-Canadian" squadron—part from the legless commander, Bader (who was not Canadian)—was P.O. W. L. McKnight, D.F.C. and bar, of Calgary, who was reported missing some months after the Battle of Britain ended. McKnight destroyed sixteen and a half enemy aircraft, and was the first Canadian ace of the war.

In the greatest day's fighting of all on September 15, the squadron destroyed twelve enemy aircraft. This was the day on which Bader described the fighting as "the finest shamble I've ever been in."

Among the Canadians P.O. J. B. Latta, D.F.C., of Victoria, B.C., had knocked down five enemy planes; Flt. Lt. Turner had five; so had P.O. N. K. Stansfield, D.F.C., Vancouver, P.O. H. N. Tamblyn, D.F.C., of North Battleford, Sask., and P.O. N. Hart had four each. Altogether, Canadian pilots in the squadron had destroyed forty-five of the total of sixty-five credited to the squadron; Bader had scored eleven.

Canada's own No. 1 Fighter Squadron which, although its personnel has completely changed, is still flying in Britain with Fighter Command, had scored a total of thirty-one victories during the battle under McNab's leadership. McNab himself had scored the first victory to be credited to a member of the squadron when, in order to gain combat experience, he flew as a supernumerary officer with an R.A.F. squadron before No. 1 Fighter Squadron was ready for front-line duties.

McNab, Flt. Lt. G. R. McGregor and Russell were each awarded the D.F.C., having destroyed between them, eleven and one-half of the squadron's total. McNab and McGregor now are both group captains; Russell is a wing commander.

DISTINGUISHED SQUADRONS

In other squadrons of the R.A.F. Canadians had also distinguished themselves. One of the flight commanders in the R.A.F. Squadron was a Canadian, Flt. Lt. R. A. Barton, Kamloops, B.C., who later became squadron commander of his unit. He was awarded the D.F.C. for his "outstanding leadership" on September 27, a day on which the squadron destroyed twenty-one enemy aircraft for the loss of two pilots killed. The total bag during September was forty-eight, a total exceeded only by the famous No. 303 Polish Squadron, in which another Canadian, Flt. Lt. (now Wing Cmdr.) John Kent, Winnipeg, was at that time a flight commander.

started as soon as possible," one official said.

POSTAL CORPS FOLLOWS CLOSELY

Officials said the Canadian Postal Corps had followed Canadian forces into Sicily and wherever else they went. Within two or three days of the Sicilian landings in July mail was moving to and from men in the front lines.

"At Christmas time our postal corps men will be with the Canadians wherever they are located," a spokesman said.

"This means that Christmas mail will move right up to the front line and be made available to men there without delay."

A massive movement of letter mail also is anticipated. With the development of Canadian air services, there is a possibility some air mail letters posted in Vancouver may be delivered to men serving in the United Kingdom three days later.

During the House of Commons sitting this year, announcement was made that bombers of the Lancaster type, converted to freight use, would be used for the carriage of mail across the ocean. This service now is under way.

Drug Stores Short Of Qualified Men

With a third of the qualified pharmacists in the armed forces, drug stores are finding it difficult to keep open for very long hours and the shortage is alarming the Pharmaceutical Association of British Columbia, it was learned following a meeting between J. P. Kennedy, president of the association, and officials of the Provincial Government.

Mr. Kennedy is in Victoria with James Douglas, registrar; F. H. Fullerton, editor of the official organ, The Western Druggist, and Miss Verna Erives, secretary.

A fully qualified druggist must be in charge of a drug store at all times, according to the Pharmacy Act of British Columbia, Mr. Kennedy stated, and pharmacy is considered essential to public health, but its members are not exempt from Military duty. A large number have volunteered for service and many more have been drafted.

Recent regulations and Federal orders-in-council require that a rigid control be exercised over the sale of drugs in chemicals, especially in wartime, he pointed out.

Results of the druggists' September War Savings Stamps drive were very satisfactory so far, Mr. Kennedy said, and the Victoria committee was carrying on with a great deal of energy.

The local committee includes R. V. Jenkins, Howard Knott, A. Minnis, M. Grant and W. E. Bond.

Helicopter Service Will Open New Opportunities

Island Air Lines Executive Suggests Many Opportunities for Development

RECENTLY organized in Victoria and incorporated under a charter which grants virtually unlimited powers within the field of aviation, Vancouver Island Air Lines Limited is believed to be the first company to apply for both Canadian and American air lines through which to operate a helicopter transport service between points on Vancouver Island, the British Columbia Mainland and Port Angeles, Anacortes, Bellingham and Seattle, in the State of Washington.

Directors are Harold Husband, president; H. T. Matson, J. L. Tait and W. B. Monteith, all of Victoria, and G. W. Thompson, Vancouver.

"The growth of commercial air transport speaks for itself," said Mr. Husband. "Our chief problem has been to find a type of plane to meet the needs of a rough and rugged country in which airports and landing fields are few and far apart. The helicopter serves the purpose we have in mind. It can land safely on a mountain top, take off from a clearing in the wood, a mill pond or a meadow, and do it easily without the risk which narrow quarters impose upon the ordinary fixed-wing plane.

COMPANY TO BLANKET VANCOUVER ISLAND

"While today's production of helicopters is exclusively for military use," Mr. Husband continued, "they will be quickly available when peace comes. It is then that we propose to establish without delay a fleet of freight and passenger carriers with which to blanket the whole of Vancouver Island, and to contact at Mainland terminals the lines of the leading air transport operators in Canada and the United States.

"Primarily," Mr. Husband added, "we are concerned with the development of Vancouver Island. It is the area we intend to serve above all others. We want Island residents and visitors alike to see at close range the Forbidden Plateau, Sproat Lake, Buttle Lake, Cathedral Grove and numerous other beauty spots, including many which, if now accessible at all, can be reached only after an expenditure of time and money which few individuals can afford. The helicopter will put such places easily within the reach and means of the humblest citizen and his family, wherever they may live on Vancouver Island.

"We plan to serve the fisherman, the logger, miner, lighthouse tender, doctor, nurse, teacher, engineer and surveyor, all, indeed, whose duties take them far from the beaten path, and, to serve them well and faithfully, we must have planes which can go almost anywhere, any time, safely and economically."

HELICOPTER PROVES ITSELF IN OPERATION

Unlike the conventional or "fixed-wing" type of plane, which requires considerable ground speed and a runway from which to take off, the helicopter rises vertically from land or water within a space of about forty feet. Exceedingly mobile, it can be driven forward, in reverse, or horizontally to either side. Brought down within a foot or two of the ground, low enough for one to receive a package or read a highway guide, it can rise again and continue on its course. It has a known altitude level of 14,000 feet and a speed ranging from 160 to 180 miles per hour, much faster than the usual speed of streamlined trains and motor cars.

That the helicopter is practical has been demonstrated in military operations which, for obvious reasons, cannot be disclosed. Sufficient to say that only a few weeks ago the United States Army placed with Nash-Kelvinator the world's first large-scale order for helicopters of the Sikorsky type, and that the same and other types are destined for mass production by Ford, Henry Kaiser, Bell, Platt-LePage, Consolidated Aircraft and other world-famous manufacturers.

Vancouver Island Air Lines Limited is in constant touch with the companies noted, including the Sikorsky Division of United Aircraft. No decision has yet been reached, since there are several types of control and propulsion to be considered, but Sikorsky design and performance are regarded highly in the realm of aeronautics.

To those who think of aviation as a "modern" institution, it may be an occasion for surprise that, four centuries ago, Leonardo da Vinci made drawings of helicopters. Nothing much came of the idea, however, until about forty years ago, when plane designers began a series of mental tailspins resulting from apparently vain endeavor to perfect a plane which would go straight up and down, forward, backward and sideways, and hover motionless in the air. Today's helicopter does all such things without a quiver, but it has taken a lot of doing to achieve the present state of efficiency.

EDISON APPROVED HELICOPTER TYPE

Somehow the memory of early experiments with helicopters haunted Igor Sikorsky, a renowned aircraft designer, and Uncle Sam becoming interested in 1938, the United States Army asked for bids on helicopters.

There has been a vast amount of research, a hard and gruelling series of tests and demonstrations and constant improvement until, today, the only type of plane of which Thomas A. Edison approved is an established fact. That plane, Edison declared away back in 1908, would have to be one which could "go straight up and down"—the helicopter—of which several types are in military service now.

The helicopter is a rotary-wing aircraft. The wing is the big rotor, whirling overhead. It is designed to lift and support the plane in the air. This the wing cannot do without a considerable flow of air across it.

On the conventional aircraft, the propeller pushes air backward and, as a reaction, itself move forward. When the propeller moves forward, the plane moves forward, too. Air flows over the wing and the wing rises, lifting the plane and propeller with it.

The rotary-wing helicopter solves the problem differently. Rotating through the air, it causes air to flow across its blades. When sufficient rotary speed is reached, there is enough air flowing across the rotor to give it lift. The rotor rises, taking the plane up with it.

The autogiro is a rotary-wing aircraft. It has a rotor like a helicopter and a propeller like that of a fixed-wing plane. The propeller pulls the autogiro forward. As it goes forward, the motion of the air turns the rotor. As the rotor turns, air flows across its blades. It develops lift and the autogiro rises. As long as the autogiro moves at an air speed of about thirty miles per hour, there is enough rotary speed and air flow to keep the autogiro up.

PLANE IS VERSATILE AND HANDLES EASILY

But the helicopter has no propeller. Its rotor acts as both wing and propeller. Differing from the autogiro, whose rotor is not connected to the engine in flight, the helicopter rotor is driven by the engine. The engine turns the rotor so that enough air flows across it to maintain lift and keep the plane up.

That is why the helicopter can hover in one spot. It does not need forward motion either to turn its rotor or provide air flow. The rotor also acts as propeller to drive the helicopter through the air. That is done by varying the pitch of the blades to get motion in any direction. The blades can also be adjusted so that they lift the plane straight up or keep it hovering in the air over one spot.

How fast the helicopter climbs, how much gas it carries, how far it can fly without refuelling, how much load it can carry, all these and other points of widespread interest are, as previously noted, military secrets.

It is, however, quite a chummy crate. For example, rambling along just a few feet above a boulevard, it can wait for the green light or defy the red, simply by rising lazily above the stop signal. Should the pilot wish a close-up of a flagpole sitter or a few words with someone in an upper window, the amiable helicopter sidles over and waits patiently in midair while the skipper has his visit.

Truly, such ridiculous things have been done by helicopter test pilots, partly by way of fun, but much more definitely to demonstrate conclusively the safety, utility and flexibility of this remarkable aircraft.

Vancouver Island Air Lines' president speaks with authority upon matters of transportation, and Mr. Husband is firmly sold on air transport and the helicopter in particular.

PROFOUND INFLUENCE ON POSTWAR HABITS

"The helicopter," he said, "will have as profound an influence on the postwar habits of the population as did the advent of the motor car after the horse-drawn vehicle days.

"This new flying machine," he continued, "will bring a new dimension in transportation to the public, creating a sphere which hitherto has been the province of a relatively small proportion of the public.

"In my opinion," Mr. Husband added, "there will be within five years after the war at least one million helicopters in civilian use. A two-seater will sell for $2,000 and when mass production hits its stride, the price will range from $1,200 to $1,500, perhaps as little as $1,000, according to the type.

"Mass production is simply a matter of organization, in which aviation and the automotive industry are supreme, not only in production, but sales, as well, since the prime purpose of mass production is to put the selling price within reach of the greatest possible number of buyers.

"Mass production demands another thing—simplicity of design. That is the key to safety and ease of operation. Early-day motor cars were complicated. People feared them as, not so long ago, they feared planes. But cars were simplified, the price came down and the market grew enormously.

PUTS FLYING WITHIN REACH OF EVERYONE

"It is in just this way that the aviation industry, putting the helicopter into mass production, soon will bring flying within the monetary means and physical ability of the average citizen anywhere, thus offering the whole population an opportunity to fly as readily and safely as they travel now by car.

"Motoring, however, is not passing out. Far from it. There will be still greater and finer highways, and plenty of persons who prefer that mode of travel, precisely as others will favor trains and boats wherever possible, but flying is here to stay and the helicopter will make flying so simple that it will be accepted almost casually as a logical development of the times.

"Before very long, people will think nothing at all of taking off from Douglas Street in Victoria and landing safely half an hour later in Granville Street, Vancouver, on the roofs of terminal buildings.

"The helicopter," Mr. Husband concluded, "is just that simple, a quick dependable mode of transportation in keeping with the age in which we live, and it will apply mass production principles to air travel for the first time."

Italy Surrenders

lied landings at Naples, Genoa, Gaeta and Civitavecchia as well as on the Island of Sardinia. The Stockholm Dagens Nyheter said there were rumors that parachute troops had dropped at the Calabrian town of Pizzo on the instep of the Italian boot. The Tunis radio said "powerful British, American and Canadian armies are landing at various points in the heart of Italy."

The war between the United Nations and Italy officially ended at 6:30 p.m. (11:30 a.m. C.D.T.) yesterday.

Gen. Eisenhower's announcement was coupled with an appeal to the Italian people to drive the Germans from their soil, and a promise of help from the Allies in doing so.

But there is a powerful German army in Italy, giving prospect of a gigantic battle and no hope that all Italy itself will fall like a plum to the Allies.

There is every likelihood the Nazis will fight desperately to hold the country and that one of the most critical phases of the Battle of Europe is about to begin.

Badoglio in a proclamation called on Italian soldiers to cease fighting the Allied forces anywhere, but to "oppose attacks from any other quarter"—in other words, to fight Germans if they attack Italians.

He read it over the Rome radio at 12:45 p.m. (C.D.T.), a signal to Allied chieftains here that up to then the Germans had not molested him.

Possibility of German seizure of power in Rome was considered in arrangements for putting the armistice into effect—and since the Allied command chose tonight as the propitious moment for it, there may be swift and decisive developments in the coming hours.

SAY ARMISTICE SIGNED FRIDAY

The military armistice, approved also by Russia, actually was signed in Sicily last Friday, on the day Italy was invaded, with the stipulation it would "come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies."

"That moment now has arrived," headquarters said.

Thus was Hitler's continental bastion breached, and the war shortened by this greatest of Allied triumphs.

General Eisenhower pledged the aid of the United Nations to Italians who help to "eject the German aggressor."

Allied bombers immediately roared over the war-weary country, dropping pamphlets, declaring that "backed by the might of the Allies, Italy now has the opportunity of taking vengeance on the German oppressor and of aiding in the expulsion of the eternal enemy from Italian soil."

It called on workers to prevent the movement of German troops or supplies by ship, rail, or road, and Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, Allied naval commander, broadcast an appeal to seamen to save their vessels from Germans who "have become the open enemy of the Italian people and intend to seize your ships."

Official statements here did not specifically say Allied forces would occupy Italy, but the assertion that they would smash at the Germans in Italy made this seem obvious.

Italy accepted all the terms imposed by the Allies—they were not disclosed—and will be obliged to "comply with political, economic and financial conditions" which will be imposed later.

EISENHOWER IN SHORT BROADCAST

The surrender was announced simultaneously by Allied headquarters and by Marshal Pietro Badoglio's Government with General Eisenhower in a brief broadcast stating that "the Italian Government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally."

"As Allied commander in chief I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the Governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics," he said.

"Thus I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

"The Italian Government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation," and the armistice "becomes effective this instant.

"Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject the German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations."

The proclamation by Badoglio sent to Allied headquarters and released here said Italian troops will "cease all acts of hostility against the Anglo-American forces wherever they may be met. They will, however, oppose attacks from any other quarter."

The war adventure into which Italy was embarked by Benito Mussolini, the creator of Fascism, who was himself deposed last July 25, thus ended in complete and absolute defeat—but with the promise that the Allies would help in freeing the country of the German yoke.

ALLIED FORCES HELD GROUND

As the armistice was announced, British and Canadian forces of the Eighth Army were already installed on the Italian toe, widening their invasion hold with scant opposition.

Italy's collapse represents the greatest victory so far scored by the United Nations in four years of the war, and reduces the opponents worthy of consideration from three to two. Germany and Japan have yet to be dealt with.

A special headquarters announcement said Italy made peace overtures "some weeks ago" and that a meeting was held in neutral territory. The Allied terms, on the Casablanca pattern, were "unconditional surrender."

"On this understanding," the announcement continued, "representatives of the Allied commander in chief were empowered to communicate to them (Italian representatives) the military conditions which they would have to fulfill.

"One clause in these military terms binds the Italian Government to comply with the political, economic and financial conditions which will be imposed later.

"Further meetings were arranged and took place in Sicily.

"The armistice was signed at Allied advance headquarters there on September 3, but it was agreed with the representatives of the Italian Government that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies, and be simultaneously announced by both sides. That moment now has arrived.

ONE OFFICER HELD FOR SECURITY

"The possibility of a German move to forestall publication of the armistice by the Italian Government was discussed during the negotiations. To meet this eventuality, it was agreed that one of the senior Italian military representatives should not return to Rome. He is now in Sicily.

"Further, Marshal Badoglio arranged to send the text of his proclamation to Allied headquarters."

Italy was primarily important to the Germans because of her position in the Mediterranean and other geographical advantages. These now are lost except insofar as the Nazis may be able to keep some hold on part of the country.

The leaflets dropped by Allied planes announced the news of the armistice to Italian civilians, and gave them these "battle orders for this phase of the war for the liberation of Europe":

To obey all orders of Allied commanders in occupied areas.

To do "nothing whatsoever to assist the Germans."

"He who wins the battle of transport wins the war" in Italy, the messages declared, and transportation workers "can and will play a decisive role."

It asked railway, dock and road workers to see that not a "single train, a single German ship, nor a single truck carrying Nazi troops or war materials is permitted to move."

The message from Admiral Cunningham said "your ships are urgently needed to assist in the work of pouring supplies to Italy and your warships to protect them from the Germans."

ORDERED NOT TO SCUTTLE SHIPS

"Take heed, therefore, that you do not scuttle your ships or allow them to be captured."

It gave directions for ships in the Mediterranean to sail to Allied-held ports, for those in the Black Sea to go to Russian or neutral ports, and for ships to be scuttled only as "a last resort" to keep them from the Germans. Signals were given for the ships to use.

Italy entered the war June 10, 1940, when Mussolini attacked a prostrate France in hopes of winning some cheaply-gained loot. The nation thus was at war three years, two months, and twenty-nine days.

Her war history was almost entirely one of defeats and increasing German domination. At the start she was theoretically an equal partner of the Axis. At the end, she was reduced to German vassalage and was the object of German scorn.

Despite their record of defeats, the Italian soldiers often showed valor, and the task of defeating Italy was not an easy one.

Italy's casualties in dead and wounded, while considerable, were nothing like those suffered by the Nazis on the Russian front. Her losses in soldiers captured were enormous. The total of Italians in Allied prison camps now approaches 1,000,000.

One thing seems certain—the Italian people never had their heart in the war, and their disaffection increased with reverses and the German domination. For centuries the Germans have been one people the Italians heartily disliked.

"It is Hitler's turn next," The Daily Worker stated. "And it will be Hitler's turn this year if a second front is opened without delay."

"Now we can get at the bloody Nazis," said a pub patron. "Just think of the lives of our boys saved with the ending of the useless fight in Italy."

Andrew Simont, head of the Free Italian Movement, said, "It is perhaps too soon to talk, but it is a happy thing that Italy is out of the war."

Awaiting word from the Government seat in Cairo, Greek sources were cautious, but stressed that the Axis would be unable to continue domination of the Balkans with the east coast of Italy occupied by the Allies.

The Near East took of news that Italy capitulated caused major excitement in the Foreign Office section of the British Ministry of Information.

J. H. Brebner, head of the ministry's news division, smiled when he stepped to the microphone to read General Eisenhower's announcement.

As Brebner finished Eisenhower's text he added these words: "End of damned good message."

Self-Help Fuel Group to Receive Oak Bay Grant

The sum of $250 will be granted the Citizens' Self-Help Fuel Committee by Oak Bay Municipality to assist in road-building in the vicinity of the Crown lands on which the fuel is being cut, according to a resolution passed by the Oak Bay Council on Wednesday night. Reeve W. L. Woodhouse in the chair.

A motion ordering the purchase of extra valves and fittings to improve the Oak Bay water supply system was also passed, following advice that these valves are now available.

Although the valves are not absolutely necessary, there is a considerable surplus in water receipts, according to A. S. G. Musgrave, municipal engineer, and certain sectors will be greatly improved by the addition.

A report was made by R. F. Blandy, municipal clerk, on the Oak Bay tax sale which took place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, being the smallest tax sale in the history of Oak Bay. Three lots were sold for a total sum of nearly $180.

Delinquent taxes collected in Oak Bay this year amount to $3,746.05, with estimates set at $4,130. This shortage is more than offset by collections of current taxes exceeding the estimates; these total $231,124 to date, against estimates of $228,997 for the final year. Collection of "arrears" (1942 taxes) total $5,524 to date against estimates of $6,470.

Permission was granted by the council to the S.P.C.A. Victoria Branch to hold a tag day on the grounds outside the horse race meet at the Willows on Saturday.

Delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention at Port Alberni this month were chosen, to include Reeve W. L. Woodhouse, Councillor J. V. Johnson and R. F. Blandy.

Cohen Decides To Resume Seat On Labor Board

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—J. L. Cohen, of Toronto, Labor representative on the National War Labor Board, has acceded to a request from three major Labor organizations that he resume his activities as a board member, he announced today.

In a letter to Mr. Justice C. P. McTague, board chairman, Mr. Cohen said he was "prepared to resume my participation in all hearings and activities of the board."

Mr. Cohen had not appeared at board hearings since he wrote Mr. McTague, August 18, saying he would not sit on controversial cases until the Government's Labor policy was "clarified." He complained of "severe limitations of unsatisfactory and inadequate legislation and prevailing administrative policy."

Check Discharges From the Bowels

Bowel troubles, although happening at any time of the year, are more prevalent during the hot summer and early fall months.

Summer Flu is one of the worst troubles, but diarrhea, dysentery, colic, cramps and pains in the intestines, or any looseness of the bowels should have immediate attention.

The action of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is pleasant, rapid, reliable and effectual in helping to check the unnatural discharges.

It has been on the market for the past 94 years, so why experiment with new and untried remedies?

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

The unconditional surrender of the Italian Army in the field, to forces it could no longer resist, was confirmed yesterday as a signal and decisive victory for the United Nations over the first of a triumvirate of foes. That leaves Germany encompassed within shrinking walls, freshly breached at Stalino; and Japan, isolated half of the girth of the globe away, who will be forced to accept the same uncompromising terms in due season. Tactically, it was a British-American victory, and a brilliant one. Strategically, however, the credit must go to the United Nations as a whole, working as one in every corner of the world. Therein lies our strength, and our ultimate assurance of total victory.

While time will be required to examine all of the ramifications of a fresh and decisive turning point in the global conflict, the first term implies all of the rest. Italy surrenders without condition or bargaining. It is the United Nations, in full consultation, who will impose the terms, both of the armistice that now comes to those of Italian nationality, and also the terms of the eventual peace itself. It will depend largely on how Italy now bears herself as to what those ultimate terms will be, and to what degree she can reinstate herself in the eyes of an emancipated world. Not in a moment can any one call a foe a friend.

Leaving the exact status of the cessation of hostilities between Allied and Italian arms to the clarification that must come within the next twenty-four hours, the surrender of Italy has vast immediate consequences in the war. On both flanks in South Europe, Germany has been heavily compromised. Neither through Spain nor in the Balkans can she now force any protracted stand. The Mediterranean passes wholly into the hands of the United Nations for the fullest prosecution of the war. The Italian peninsula itself becomes a huge and unsinkable aircraft carrier for the invasion of South German territory. In Greece and Jugoslavia the enemy's positions will rapidly become untenable. Faster than most people imagined possible, Germany is being driven back into her inner fortress, there to make a last-ditch and unavailing stand.

It is both timely and fitting that on the day the unconditional surrender of the Italian people is announced in the South, our Russian ally in the East should have won a climacteric success in the Donets Basin; where Stalino changed hands. Both are evidences of the same grim purpose and tenacity with which the United Nations, and all of them, are forcing the aggressors to their knees. Of equal weight, and not one whit different in pattern, was the concurrent success attending Allied attrition of Japanese outposts in the Southwestern Pacific. For this is a global, indivisible war; and the United Nations for some time have been making a united and total reply.

It is but natural that here in Canada, where the steadiness and resourcefulness of the First Canadian Division has been witnessed with honest pride, that the collapse of Italy today looms most clearly and largely in our minds. To General Eisenhower and the three arms of the Allied services under his command will go out the earnest and heartfelt congratulations of everyone in this land. United States units and the British First Army which landed at Casablanca, and the British Eighth Army which fought through from El Alamein to Palmi, have behind them now a magnificent, triumphant feat of arms; supported flawlessly by the ships and planes of both services, and by French units which voluntarily sought a part in the fight.

Perhaps most satisfying of all at this juncture of the war is the fact that the United Nations have stood by their terms of unconditional surrender, declined to bargain or haggle in any shape or form, and can demonstrate now the integrity of their single-minded purpose before the world. That purpose is the emancipation of mankind, the abolition of slavery in every shape and form. The fact that the armistice today in Italy is cheered as readily by the Italians as by ourselves shows that freedom itself is a living, dynamic idea. It wins wars. Had Italy remembered that three years ago she would not now be on the short end of an armistice in two words: unconditional surrender.

ARGENTINA REBUFFED

The formal reply of the United States of America to the Republic of Argentina, which had applied for assistance under lease-lend agreement, will be interpreted by the world as a rebuff, and in this instance a well-merited one. While it is wholly within the competence of the United States to say what her relations will be with any other nation, Argentina was seeking the benefits of freedom without having contributed to the earning of those benefits in any form.

If ever a country had the opportunity to weigh its position in the world and to reach a sensible decision on that, it was Argentina. Every other republic in South America had set the example, both in respect of this hemisphere and abroad in the world. Argentina, however, tried to play the war both ways from the middle, to run with the hare and also to hunt with the hounds. Nazi agents were openly favored in Argentina up until a very recent period. Nazi propaganda newspapers were licensed in Buenos Aires. From that city also, to within a few weeks ago, code messages were being sent by Hitler's hirelings to their Fatherland; messages which came directly under suspicion in the Atlantic submarine battle, and for cause.

Without breaking with Nazi Germany, without more than a superficial bow towards the United Nations' side, Argentina then claimed the benefits of a fighting participant in the war, both in protection of coastal trade, and more recently in a direct application for monetary concessions from the United States. At the same time, the republic was engaged at home in a militant dictatorship which had curiously similar resemblances to the discredited Nazi pattern. What else but a rebuff could Argentina expect under all the circumstances? Even neutrality has to be earned.

SCHOOLS REOPEN

Considering the times and the stresses under which any community must operate in wartime, Greater Victoria is reopening its schools for the new term with less dislocation than might well have been anticipated. There has been a decided shift in the incidence of school attendance, making for congestion at some points and vacancies at others. Staff shortages would appear to have been almost entirely ironed out, at urban points at least. The public schools, as a going concern, will continue with all that that means to those whose tuition is affected.

Commendation is clearly earned by Victoria shipyards and other forms of wartime employment which encouraged youths of school ages, who had worked there in the Summer vacations, to return to their classrooms. Schooling is only possible during certain years in a lifetime, though education may continue as long as life lasts. The attraction of war wages and the status of manhood were powerful forces pulling at youths in the borderline ages. Wise counsels in the home and at these industrial establishments in most cases have prevailed.

While some criticism of an adverse nature has been levelled from time to time at the public schools in Canada, there is a very great deal that could be said on the credit side of the ledger. As a whole, Canadians are well educated. Where they have gone through the elementary, junior and senior high schools of the country, they have obtained a broad grounding, upon which to erect any superstructure they wish to in the years to come. The absence of class distinctions has been a wholesome factor in the public schools of the land. Even in the midst of war these benefits must be held in trust.

"DISCOVERY DAY"

Dawson City celebrated its forty-seventh "Discovery Day" on August 17 last, with true Klondike favors. A sourdough committee was in charge of "everything." Three "golden nuggets"—born in the Yukon this year—were carried triumphantly in the parade by their mothers. Professional and volunteer fire brigades went along. There were Rangers in uniform, and also Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. Last, but not least, the Yukon Order of Pioneers were in the procession; on foot where they could march, and in cars where they could not. The Dawson News, reciting the events of the day, said it was the best Discovery Day for a long time past.

Capt. George Black, M.P., in the Discovery Day address, recalled the finding of gold by Bob Henderson and George Carmacks in the Klondike forty-seven years ago, the discovery which led to the rush and the colorful Trail of Ninety-Eight. If Soapy Smith, still pursued by an imaginary sheriff's posse, could have been present in spirit, he might have snorted at the three "golden nuggets," but even he would have taken note of the Rangers, and been sensible of the fact that the North was an up and coming place just now. For a discovery more valuable than gold has been made in the Yukon, a front seat on the air routes of the world.

There may be those, of couse, who sigh for the good old days when innkeepers slept with thousands of dollars worth of gold dust under their mattresses; when some kind of a posse was always looking for some kind of a fugitive from the long and not too steady arm of the law; when men were found alone and dead in the snow, beside a box of matches which they had broken despairingly, one by one; when, in short, men tramped in single file on the trail of '98 into a land they had never known.

Those days, however, are gone. Today, the drone of an airplane marks the morning mail in the North; sets the time for rosy-faced youngsters to set off for school; brings out one or other of the "golden nuggets" for an airing in his or her crib. It is the sky-horse, too, which brings in the ballot boxes; takes out the North's contribution to the latest War Loan; carries the sourdough out for his Winter in the southlands; and brings in the cheechako, who lands, nervously enough, in the lap of human luxury. But all of them, forty-seven years ago or today, go back to the Land of the Midnight Sun, like pigeons homing to their roost.

JOHN WALTER BERRY

Mr. John Walter Berry, former Conservative member of the British Columbia Legislature for Delta in the Tolmie regime, passed away at his home in Langley, B.C., on Sunday, at the age of seventy-four years. He was a well-known dairyman of the Lower Mainland, and at one time reeve of Langley municipality. In provincial affairs he became known for his championing of the cause of orderly milk marketing in the Lower Fraser Valley, an issue he espoused for many years in the Legislature.

A commanding figure of a man, with a bluff and genial manner which made him many friends, the late Mr. Berry was an able and determined debater. Through many sessions, and in more than one Legislature, he argued for control of milk production and distribution, considerably before present marketing schemes and regulations were promulgated. This paper, which had frequently opposed him on specific issues, desires to add its sincere appreciation to his memory. Mr. Berry was a good British Columbian, one who fought hard for the things in which he believed.

AN ESSAY ON MAN

Hope springs eternal in the human breast;
Man never is, but always to be blest.
The soul, uneasy and confined from home
Rests and expatiates in a life to come.
Lo, the poor Indian! whose untutored mind
Sees God in clouds, or hears him in the wind;
His soul proud science never taught to stray
Far as the solar walk, or milky way.
Yet simple nature to his hope has given,
Behind the cloud-topped hill, an humbler heaven.
—Pope

Aversion from reproof is not wise. It is a mark of a little mind. A great man can afford to lose; a little insignificant fellow is afraid of being snuffed out.—Cecil.

Good sense and good nature are never separated, though the ignorant world has thought otherwise. Good nature, by which I mean beneficence and candor, is the product of right reason.—Dryden.

GAME, WITH LAND

Sir,—In your issue of August 28, you print a report of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association. They were discussing a certain resolution which states: "At various times in the past and in some localities agitation has been started among some of the farmers that all wild game, birds and animals, that feed on their land should be the individual property of the farmer rather than of the state. With this in mind, the farmers feel that they should be allowed to kill any game found destroying their crops without taking out regulation permits."

As a farmer and as an owner of considerable land I would say that my covenanted rights from the Crown go much further than that. When the Crown conveyed "all right, title, etc." to my predecessors in ownership it very definitely settled the right to indigenous products and of responsibility. Certainly a game act coming in some seventy years afterwards cannot now disannul. In fact, the Provincial Legislature has no power to do it. The only reason that the Game Commission, as such, has functioned for some few years has been the preoccupation of farmers with farming, on the one hand; and on the other, policemen, courts and jails.

Some of my legal friends have advised me that because of the sovereignty of the Provincial Legislature it can pass what act it likes. This clearly indicates a lack of the legal mind to grasp the philosophy involved in the term sovereignty.

As an owner of land I claim the fulfillment of the Crown's covenant which has been signed, sealed and delivered and passed along by legal processes to me. In the bargain with the original purchaser the Crown made certain reservations. These are respected. Whatever else was in or on the land was included in that very embracing term "all rights." That the state owned the game here when it owned the land is unquestioned. That the state refuses to accept responsibility of ownership is a fair inference. That as land owners we have been a bunch of boobs to put up with this game act is, to me, an iron bound conclusion.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any time, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

President Roosevelt remarked during a speech on July 2: "It is too easy to assume that all consumers have surplus purchasing power. This easy assumption ignores the millions of salaried white-collared workers, the school teachers, clergymen, the policemen, firemen, clerks, the dependent mothers of the soldier boy, the widow living off the proceeds of her husband's insurance policy, and the old age pensioner. The Foreign Policy Association, a privately-financed research group studying Japanese history, economics and psychology at Washington, D.C., believes that Japan may break up internally when her people and soldiers realize they are being herded along the road to their first national defeat. Says the association: "Despite the general docility of the Japanese peasants, they are capable of great violence. If the assaults of the United Nations and demands of the Japanese people are sufficiently compelling, the imperial household and the bureaucracy may support peace moves in an effort to save their own skins. The recent ban on public assemblies suggests that democratic or at least anti-militaristic tendencies exist within the country. Japan has never fought a war on the present scale. All her previous wars were against single, relatively weak opponents."

Fight at Foggia

mans to defend the airfield at Foggia was interpreted as meaning it was still the centre from which the Nazi air force hoped to send bombers and fighters against any further Allied landing attempts. An estimated 300 bombers were withdrawn from Sicily before it fell to the Allies and it is believed they were stationed at Foggia.

Shortly before capitulation of the Italians, British and Canadian forces had pushed their grip on the peninsula to Bova Marina, ten miles east of Melito in the south. Along the west coast they had advanced as far as the Petrace River north of Palmi.

The progress of the Eighth Army was slowed considerably by the extensive demolition work carried out by the German forces. Such opposition as was encountered failed to indicate that it was more than delaying action by small forces.

CANADIANS FIND NO OPPOSITION

William Stewart, Canadian Press war correspondent in a delayed dispatch from Italy, said Canadian infantry marching through the tallest mountains on the Italian toe continued Monday to encounter virtually no opposition. He said the advance was slowed down because the troops have to march up and down twisting mountain roads, with their supplies being brought up on foot or by mule team.

Royal Canadian Engineers are working hard to bridge crumbled stone structures and fill in gaps in the roads circling the mountains, Stewart said.

Continued Allied air bombing forced the Italian fleet to abandon the naval base at Taranto at the heel of the boot, Allied Headquarters learned. The fleet was reported to have gone to Pola, on the eastern Adriatic shore south of Trieste. As far as is known, the main portion of the fleet, however, still is at La Spezia on the northwest coast.

Tuesday night R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes struck at Viterbo airfield, north of Rome.

Sgt. Leslie Petry, of Bentley, Alta., said there was a row of fires on the airdrome. "We saw many sticks of bombs fall in the target area," he said.

CAIRO, Sept. 8 (AP). — Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, Allied Commander in Chief in the Middle East, tonight called upon Greeks and Yugoslavs to "await our signal for a general uprising," and cautioned that the hour of their liberation has not yet arrived.

In his broadcast message Gen. Wilson informed the two occupied countries of the Italian armistice and paid tribute to guerrilla bands for helping bring about the victory.

Addressing Italian troops in the Balkans by radio, Gen. Wilson asked them to prevent "by force of arms" the Germans from taking over their weapons and supplies. The broadcast was recorded in New York by C.B.S.

"The war between Italy and the United Nations has come to an end," said Gen. Wilson. "All attempts made by the Germans or their vassals to disarm Italian troops or to dissolve them, take over their arms, supplies, transports and water supplies must be prevented by force of arms. All German orders are to be disregarded."

Another proclamation by Gen. Wilson to Italian troops in the Aegean Islands urged them to "take possession by force of all fronts occupied by the Germans in the Dodecanese," said a B.B.C. broadcast recorded by N.B.C.

open city before Allied bombing fleets arrive.

Rumania, as well as Bulgaria and Hungary, long has been reported desirous of quitting the war.

In Yugoslavia and Greece guerrilla armies probably will be receiving Allied supplies through the Adriatic soon—if there is no outright Allied invasion.

Already Allied staff officers from Cairo have made their way into Yugoslavia and held conferences with guerrillas to co-ordinate strategy.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP).—The German radio screamed "betrayal" in giving the German people news of Italy's unconditional surrender tonight.

The German news agency, D.N.B., made it plain that the Nazis had not been taken into the confidence of King Victor Emmanuel and Marshal Badoglio when the Italian Government decided to get out of the war.

Shifting its propaganda line to keep up with events, Berlin said an Anglo-American "plot" overturned the Fascist regime of Premier Mussolini, which it described as loyal to Berlin. Just after July 25, when Mussolini fell, Berlin said Fascism in Italy had proved sterile and was quite properly ousted.

"Since the criminal plot against Il Duce of July 25 and the coup d'etat prepared in co-operation with the British and Americans for removal of the Fascist regime, which was loyal to the alliance, German authorities were prepared for such open treachery and they therefore took all the measures required by the situation," said the broadcast.

"The criminal plot against the defenders of Europe will fail ultimately, just as all similar actions."

Berlin's announcement of Italy's fall trailed by several hours Marshal Badoglio's proclamation to the Italians over the Rome radio.

Quoting Allied announcements on the capitulation and stating that an armistice now was in effect, Berlin added bitterly:

"Marshal Badoglio in the meantime confirmed the capitulation in a broadcast from Rome. . . .

"Badoglio admitted that he had asked Gen. Eisenhower for an armistice."

All telephone communication between Berlin and Italy has been severed, Berlin announced tonight, declaring that the Germans had refused to accept urgent calls by way of Hungary or Switzerland.

Hitler's Disaster

said the former dictator was ill with cancer and interned in Fort Braschi, north of Rome.

The collapse of Italy—a country that had lost more than 1,000,000 soldiers and an empire in a little over three years of illfated war—laid bare the whole German position in the South, from the Dardanelles to the French Riviera.

ITALIAN DIVISIONS LOST TO HITLER

Badoglio's capitulation had the immediate effect of stripping Hitler of about twenty-seven Italian divisions posted in the Balkans. It probably means the immediate occupation by the Allies of such straegic spots as Sardinia and Corsica from which Southern France may be invaded.

Although a bloody campaign may have to be fought in Northern Italy before the last German is driven beyond the Alps, the Allies probably will gain quickly a variety of strategic air bases from which to punish every corner of the Reich.

An even more staggering blow to the Nazis may be the moral effect in Southeastern Europe.

The dramatic bankruptcy of Fascism where it was cradled appeared bound to open crevices there, as well as in Germany.

Poised to take advantage of new battle areas opened up in the southern theatre were no less than seven Allied armies, some of them superbly trained and equipped. These were the British-Canadian Eighth Army, already in action in Italy, the American Seventh Army, mysteriously inactive since the fall of Sicily, the British First and American Fifth Armies which have been held in reserve in North Africa, the newly-equipped French Army in North Africa, and the British Ninth and Tenth Armies in the Middle East.

W.A. to R.C.A.S.C. Resumes Meetings

The Women's Auxiliary to the R.C.A.S.C. held the opening meeting of the Fall season on Wednesday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A., the president, Mrs. H. Rogers, in the chair. It was decided to assist the W.A. to the Canadian Dental Corps with the tag day arranged for September 18. Members were asked to bring to the next meeting any woolen garments or woolen articles they can spare, which the auxiliary will have made up into blankets.

Letters were read from men overseas thanking the members for parcels. It was also announced that a shipment of twenty pounds of baby clothes had arrived in England safely.

During the Summer months the military hospital had been visited regularly by different members.

A special night meeting was called for September 14 to revise the parcel list and plan the contents of Christmas parcels.

VICTORIA W.I.

The September social meeting of the members of Victoria Women's Institute will be held in the Institute rooms, 635 Fort Street, on Friday afternoon. A decorated table contest will be held. Flowers, fruit or vegetables may be used for decoration and these must be in place at 2 p.m. The tables will be judged by popular vote. Afternoon tea will be served by the ways and means committee.

GRADS AT BANQUET

Graduates from O.T.C. at Gordon Head held a banquet in the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel Wednesday night and places were set for 175. Following the banquet there was dancing.

Beginners are taught that they must lead toward kings, not away from them, and, of course, this is sound advice for almost all the cases that are normally encountered. There is, however, nothing rigid about this "rule." Circumstances decidedly alter cases and occasions arise when simple expediency, to say nothing of strategy, demands a reversal of technique. For example:

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠ A K
♥ K 6 5 3 2
♦ 9 5 4
♣ K 7 3

WEST
♠ Q 10 9 7 5
♥ A 8 7
♦ K 10 6
♣ J 5

EAST
♠ 4 3 2
♥ Q 10
♦ Q 8 7 2
♣ Q 10 4 2

SOUTH
♠ J 8 6
♥ J 9 4
♦ A J 3
♣ A 9 8 6

This deal occurred in a total point team of four contest and, strange to say, the bidding followed precisely the same lines at both tables:

North	East	South	West
2 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

The opening lead was also the same in both rooms, namely, the spade ten. In room 1, the play developed as follows: The spade king won and declarer led a club to the ace in order to return a low heart toward dummy's king. West, naturally enough, did not put up the ace and the king held. Now on a heart return declarer had no hope for contract without clearing the heart suit. East's queen held the trick and the spade return removed declarer's last stopper while West still had hearts securely controlled with the ace. However declarer manoeuvred he was bound to go down at least one trick.

In the other room the South player was not so hide-bound in his observance of so-called rules of play. Upon winning the first trick with the spade king he promptly and with extreme nonchalance led a low heart from dummy. If East had been more astute this manoeuvre would have come to naught, but actually East made the usual second hand low play of the ten spot and from that point on declarer was well on the way to success. He covered the ten with the jack and West regretfully parted with his heart ace. (It would have done him no good to hold it up.) A spade return knocked out the ace, but now declarer laid down the heart king, neatly felling East's queen, then cashed the heart nine to extract West's eight. A club was led to the king, the remaining hearts were cashed, and declarer's club ace and diamond ace became the fulfilling tricks.

So far as this declarer's play was concerned it should be observed that the heart lead from dummy instead of toward dummy had nothing to lose. No matter how well the missing [illegible] declarer would have to concede at least two tricks to establish the suit. This virtue of his play was that while it could not cost him anything, it might (and did!) gain him a great deal. What declarer hoped for was what actually happened, namely, that East would be found with the doubleton queen and, through ignorance or inertia, would neglect to put it up.

Obviously East was caught napping—there was no reason not to put up the queen second hand—but this did not affect the credit due South.

Will Assemble Troops Here—Victoria has been chosen as the concentration base for the troops mobilized in Canada for service in Siberia. Announcement to the effect was made yesterday afternoon by Major-General R. G. E. Leckie, the General Officer Commanding Military District No. 11. Only the bare fact that Victoria has been found the most suitable point for concentration and that the troops will be stationed here was stated in the message, which was signed by the Master-General of Ordnance. Major-General Leckie was fully seized of Victoria's advantages from the military standpoint.

At night it is equally dangerous to people walking.

Japanese Errors in Strategy and Tactics

By IRA WOLPERT
(Copyright, 1943, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK.—The fatal errors in the Japs' plan of war were summarized for this reporter by several officers in various parts of the Pacific in the last months, among them a man who ranks high in the War Plans Office of the Pacific Fleet, and several who have been life-long partisans of one or the other or all three of our roads to Tokio—the northern via the Aleutians based on Alaska, the central based on Hawaii, the southern based on Australia.

The war plans officer declared that, strategically, "the mortal error the Japanese committed was in attacking Hawaii and the Philippines at the outset of their war for dominance. If they had bypassed us entirely, they might have gone down all the way through Oceania and perhaps have got Australia itself while we spent the war fighting Senator Wheeler and Col. Lindbergh and isolationist sentiment in general.

"Then, with these bases secure and consolidated over a period of years, they could have taken whatever they wanted of ours—Hawaii, even the Panama Canal—and we would have lost the war forever."

Another point frequently raised and that bewilders our naval officers is why Japan, having decided to attack us at the outset, did not invade Hawaii December 7 instead of merely raiding it. Even if she were not able to hold Hawaii permanently without a conquest and organization of Oceania, even if we were able eventually in weeks or months to oust Japanese invaders from Hawaii, her troops on the Islands could have wrecked them so that Hawaii would have been useless to our war effort for years.

ALASKAN FAILURE

A third error—regarded as mortal by partisans of the northern route to Japan—is that the Japanese invaded the Aleutians without sufficient force to take them and roll on into Alaska.

"All they did with their expedition there," one officer said, "was to call to our attention the fact that the Aleutians existed and were useful and belonged to us."

This officer—and he has numerous supporters—regards the Japanese error in the north as fatal because he believes we will ultimately strike the decisive blow in the war from there.

These were strategical errors. The tactical error that is costing the Japanese most dearly now and, perhaps more than any other single factor, keeps them from any hope of ever winning the war is that they overestimated the value of the element of mobility in firepower and developed it to the point where it undoes their firepower.

Mobility in firepower, emphasis on speed and manoeuvrability rather than sheer hitting power, is the contribution of the Germans to this war. At least they were the first to use it, although the Russians and our army and navy, when their turn for demonstration came, showed themselves as having been equally sensitive to its advantages in overcoming the defences that featured the last war.

SACRIFICED FOR MOBILITY

The Japanese, perhaps because of their talent for imitation and their desire to excel what they imitate, plunged headlong along the road to mobility and carried it far beyond any other nation. For example, they put great quantities of magnesium into the metal of their planes in order to make them lighter than any ordinary aluminum alloy could. Their light planes could not carry heavy armament or armor. Magnesium made their airplanes almost as vulnerable as gasoline-soaked paper to incendiary bullets and to even so frail a heat as a tracer bullet carries, but they relied on the speed and manoeuvrability that lightness gives for defence—and lost. Their planes twirl through the sky like paper hoops with gasoline tails and burn like paper hoops.

We, on the other hand, found a better way out. We concentrated on speed and sacrificed manoeuvrability to armor, armament and horsepower. As a result, we use our speed to break off the fight whenever a Japanese begins using manoeuvrability to give himself the advantage and then use speed to resume the fight from a position where the Japanese manoeuvrability is useless to him.

This carrying of mobility far beyond the point of diminishing returns is found not only in the Japanese air force, but in their navy as well. And wherever it is found, the Japanese pay for it. He pays for it in the destruction of his weapons and in the death of the trained men who use them.

The really significant feature of this Japanese error is his apparent incapacity to correct it. He does not seem to have the industrial power to change the design of his planes, for instance, while maintaining the flow of them he needs. The airplanes he used over New Georgia and that went down in flames over New Georgia were exactly the same type as went down over Guadalcanal when I was there last Fall—paper hoops with gasoline tails.

Italian Defeat Will Shorten War States Brodeur

That Italy's collapse is a tremendous advantage to the Allies, and will undoubtedly mean a shortening of the war was the view expressed here Wednesday by Rear Admiral Victor G. Brodeur, R.C.N., former representative of Canada on the joint naval staff at Washington, D.C., and now officer in command of Canada's naval operations on the Pacific Coast, in discussing Italy's surrender on Wednesday.

"We cannot tell for another week or so what the real situation will be regarding Germany's future actions," he explained. "Allied strategy following the surrender of Italy naturally depends on what faces us in the North. Everything depends on that."

The admiral declared, however, that the clearing of the Mediterranean would be achieved, and the south and southeast corners of Germany would be absolutely accessible.

"From Italy's airfields it will be possible to bomb Germany and the Balkan-dominated countries without cessation," he said.

Although he feels invasion through Southern France is out of the question because of the easily-defended mountain passes, he said an easy way is shown through Albania into the Balkans, and possibly from the Dodecanese Islands, which are now available to the United Nations.

The elimination of the Italian navy will give the Allies complete control of the Mediterranean, releasing British units for service elsewhere, he said.

The admiral warned, however, that the defeat of Italy does not change the Pacific situation, and defences on the West Coast must not be relaxed.

"The Japanese policy is at present obscure and we must be constantly on guard until they show us definitely their future strategy," he stated.

Admiral Brodeur, who formerly commanded at Esquimalt, returned to Victoria, Wednesday, after an absence of three years. He was accompanied by Mrs. Brodeur.

Taranto Abandoned By Italian Navy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (AP). — It was learned today that the Italian Navy has abandoned Taranto, on the inner heel of the Italian boot, as a naval base.

Warships recently steamed out of the much-bombed port and proceeded to Pola, apparently for safekeeping. Pola is on the western coast of the Adriatic south of Trieste and is about the farthest Italian port from present areas of war activity.

The other main part of the Italian known here. La Spezia is in Northwestern Italy, some sixty miles southeast of Genoa.

New Service on Trans-Canada

To relieve the transcontinental flights and increase space for passengers, mails and express to and from the Pacific Coast and Western Canada, Trans-Canada Air Lines will put into operation a third daily flight between Winnipeg and Montreal, effective on Wednesday, September 15, according to announcement made today by G. M. Dempsey, traffic representative, T.C.A., Victoria.

The service will be overnight; the plane leaving Winnipeg at 11:50 p.m. arrives at Toronto at 7 the following morning, at Ottawa at 8:55 and at Montreal at 9:45. Westbound, the plane will leave Montreal at 10 p.m. to arrive in Winnipeg at 6:50 a.m.

The addition of a third daily flight between Toronto and New York will provide a twice-daily service between Western Canada and New York instead of the present one through service. The new overnight service is provided with departure from Victoria at 4:15 p.m. and from Vancouver at 5 p.m., with arrival in New York at 1 o'clock the following afternoon. Planes leaving Victoria at 1:20 a.m. and Vancouver at 6 a.m. permit arrival in New York shortly after midnight. These services make convenient connections with Washington and Philadelphia.

Changes in schedules now provide a considerably improved service from the Pacific Coast to Newfoundland. It will now be possible to leave Victoria at 4:15 and Vancouver at 5 p.m., reaching St. John's, by way of Moncton and Sydney, at 5:20 the second morning.

Sink Two Axis Vessels Off French Coast

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—The Admiralty announced today that light coastal forces of the Royal Navy sank an enemy patrol vessel and an armed trawler in a surprise attack this morning off the coast of France.

The British force, patrolling between Fecamp and St. Valery, encountered three enemy patrol vessels and two trawlers, a communique said.

"Although the enemy force was superior both in numbers and weight of armament," the communique added, "His Majesty's ships approached to close range and carried out a surprise attack with torpedoes.

"One of the enemy patrol vessels blew up and disappeared. A further explosion was heard shortly afterwards and an armed trawler was seen to sink."

The enemy returned erratic gunfire. The attack was maintained and "further explosions were heard but in darkness it was impossible to observe full results of this phase of the operation."

The British ships returned without casualties or damage.

One night came on a hurricane,
The sea was mountains rolling,
When Barney Buntline turn'd his quid,
And said to Billy Bowling:
"A strong sou'wester's blowing,
Bill. Oh don't you hear it roar now?
Lord help 'em, how I pities all
Unhappy folks on shore now!"

Another word about the boys who are delivering the goods to our fighters far away; a nod to those who are running the gauntlet of our enemies under-the-water front; some lines o' type for the unsung and only occasional dungarees who can stand anything except the life of a landlubber.

What is it makes a man go to sea, especially these days?

Money?

That's out; nowhere and never was a dollar harder and more hazardously earned.

Fame?

Wrong again; the seaman is destined for anonymity, his lot is that of one sure to be lost in the crowd.

Still "These mariners pursue their constant way"; still their slogan after heroic experiences is "You bet I'm going back to sea"; and their consolation is a tune of sympathy for the unfortunates doomed to spend their life amid the perils of town.

Nazi General Grows Cabbages

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP) — From high strategy with Rommel in North Africa to digging in a Canadian cabbage patch represents a change in occupation some German officers are able to accept philosophically, Canadian officials said today.

They confirmed a British broadcast to Germany last night which said Gen. Hans von Rabenstein, right-hand man to Field Marshal Rommel in the battle for Libya, is growing cabbages for sauerkraut in a prisoners of war camp in Canada.

Location of the camp was not disclosed.

Officials here said that all prisoners are able to take exercise and some officers on parole within the camp area, are allowed to cultivate gardens.

Gen. von Rabenstein was one of those interested in developing a garden, and a British major who visited him and later made the broadcast found the former German strategist stripped to the wait and working in a field of 3,000 cabbages.

Maj.-Gen. Frimmel, Nazi tank expert, is among the other 500 officers and 150 men of the Afrika Corps at the camp.

MORE TEA FOR YOUR TEAPOT
What could be a more appropriate bearer of good news than the good old family teapot. The Ration Board says the tea supply for Canada has so much improved that we can now enjoy a half-a-pound every six weeks instead of every eight. The millions of Canadians who prefer SALADA have just cause for rejoicing.

Ration Books May Be Kept at Store

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—Provision for the holder of a ration book owner to leave his book, card or a sheet from the book with his retailer is contained in a consolidated order covering rationing rules, issued by the Prices Board.

The order provides that the book, card or sheet left with the retailer must include the stub signed by the consumer. Every time a sale is made to the consumer, the retailer must detach enough coupons to cover the quantity delivered.

It was learned this provision applies to cash as well as to charge-account customers. It applies to many housewives who deal steadily with the same retailer, in addition to those who order by telephone from one retailer and do not wish to take in ration books every time they intend to purchase rationed goods.

People are much alike wherever we go, and so are boys. A witty man said, "The axis of the earth sticks out visibly through the centre of each and every town or city."

Conference Will Consider Problems Of Recreation

A conference to discuss the problem of entertainment and recreation for adults and youth in employment will be held in Vancouver on Friday, with more than 200 delegates from civic groups, service clubs, unions, churches, social agencies and parent-teacher groups in attendance. The all-day session will be held at the Navy League clubrooms, 111 Dunsmuir Street. F. C. Boyes, of the Council of Social Agencies, chairman.

W. Dawson, president of the Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council and war convener for the British Columbia P.-T.A., and Mrs. William Blair, president of the Oaklands P.-T.A. and provincial recreational convener for British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation.

The conference will attempt to gain financial support for the provision of adequate recreational facilities for war workers from the Department of Labor. The Minister of Labor is authorized by order in council to enter into agreements with Provinces or municipalities to provide for such a programme by the Dominion. The director of National Selective Service is ordered to make every effort to negotiate such agreements.

Miss Betty Dunbar, Aeronautical Lodge 756, Vancouver, will lead the discussion on the general recreational needs and activities for industrial workers, swing shift and Sunday entertainment. W. R. McDougall, principal of North Vancouver High School, will lead the discussion on the teen-ager in employment. Leadership, recruiting and training will be led by Gordon Hearne, Y.M.C.A.

W.R.A.C. Sponsors Move for Smaller Quantities of Jam

IN order to overcome the difficulties in purchasing large tins of jams that require many coupons a resolution was passed at a meeting of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee, held Wednesday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. with Mrs. Paul Smith in the chair, that store keepers be empowered to open and distribute to purchasers smaller quantities of jam, for which the buyers will provide their own containers.

Tabulation of the additional population of Victoria, including war workers and servicemen's families in order that the quota of retailers could be adjusted, was suggested. This, it was hoped, would overcome the shortages experienced particularly in children's clothing and men's heavy underwear.

Announcement was made that in future all retail butchers will be provided with a large easel-type poster which will be prominently displayed on his counter, and on which, each week, will be affixed the maximum prices of the different cuts of meat.

Growing out of a complaint of an alleged practice of ration boards to distribute extra sugar to certain persons, a resolution will be forwarded to Ottawa asking that a stated amount be allotted to each individual in future.

The board of members and liaison officers were invited to meet J. A. Klein, administrator for women's, misses' and children's clothing, on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Empress Hotel.

OUTLINES DUTIES OF BOARD MEMBERS

Mrs. Paul Smith spoke on the duties and responsibilities of members of the board, reminding them that "it was hardly the place of any member of the board to criticize the rulings of the W.T.P.B.; rather they should inform themselves as to the reason for such rulings, and, in turn, educate the members of their organization." Mrs. Smith said it was due to the reports and suggestions turned in by liaison officers that jam was now rationed; that certain restrictions on bakery goods had been enforced; that maximum prices on staple commodities were being circulated through liaison officers; and that now price ceiling was to be enforced on durable vegetables.

A complaint was received concerning the new type rubber rings used for preserving fruits and vegetables. It was alleged over 400 women have ruined their preserves because of ineffective rubber rings. This matter will be taken up with the Department of Munition and Supply, Ottawa.

Another complaint was received that wastage of food took place when, in order to purchase coffee, it was necessary to order food, often unrequired. This matter will also be reported to the proper authorities.

REPORT OF REMAKE CENTRE

Report of the Remake Centre, compiled by Mrs. H. S. Hurn, convener, was read by Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps. This paper showed that classes are now filled to capacity and there is a growing waiting list. It is the intention of the committee to make necessary arrangements for displaying some of the models in the near future to publicize the need for the conservation of materials. A note of sympathy was passed to Mrs. H. S. Hurn on her recent unfortunate accident when she sustained a sprained ankle.

Mrs. W. E. Rayfuse presented the report of the Housing Registry for the month of August and mentioned that the Housing Registry was definitely a project of the W.R.A.C. board, and should be supported by all members. She made an appeal for volunteer help both in the office and as inspectors of accommodation offered the registry.

Engagements

Announcements to appear under this heading will be accepted at The Colonist Advertising Department. Minimum charge $1.50 for 10 lines, and 15c for each additional line.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Mirfield, of 1117 McClure Street, wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Violet Isobell, to Ldg. Seaman Lance Lucas, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Lucas, of Hamilton, Ont. The wedding will take place at St. John's Church, September 18.

W.M.S. Fall Rally Largely Attended

The Fall rally of the Victoria Presbyterial W.M.S. was held most successfully on Wednesday afternoon in the schoolroom of the Victoria West United Church, the guest speaker being Rev. A. S. Tuttle, D.D. The various auxiliaries were well represented and the members of the Victoria West W.A. were hostesses for the day. Mrs. W. H. Muncy was in the chair.

The proceedings opened with a devotional period conducted by Miss Margaret Lawrie, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. J. H. Laird, a member of the Oak Bay Auxiliary. Dr. Tuttle chose no special topic for his address, but related his experiences—"ordinary and extraordinary"—gleaned from life. His anecdotes were based on the assumption that "All things work together for the common good," and to illustrate this point more graphically he told of the bomb which missed its mark in England, thereby uncovering a spring of water.

The tragedy of war was also mentioned by Dr. Tuttle and the realization that sooner or later war turns men back to God.

Mrs. Gordon Mitchell was the soloist of the afternoon and sang effectively "Grant Me, Dear Lord, Deep Peace of Mind" and "Thanksgiving." Mrs. L. A. Young was her accompanist.

The vote of thanks to Dr. Tuttle, the soloist, Miss Lawrie, and the members of the Victoria West W.A. for their hospitality was voiced by Mrs. C. A. Fields, a member of the Fairfield W.A. Tea and a social hour brought the rally to a close.

J. H. Crossley Tells Gardeners How to Grow Bulbs

J. H. Crossley, of the Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton, delivered an interesting address on the "Growing of Bulbs" to the Victoria Horticultural Society on Tuesday evening in the City Hall.

He gave some valuable advice as to the growing and care of tulips, iris and hyacinths in British Columbia, touching particularly on the commercial side of bulb culture. He mentioned conditions of the Saanich district especially, and stated that bulbs grown here compare favorably with those grown in any country.

The society's monthly competition featured bowls of Charm Dahlias, the awards going to Mrs. E. W. Darcus and Mrs. Angus McKay. Outdoor tomatoes were also shown and some fine specimens brought by W. R. Nicholls and W. C. Cave won prizes.

Members were reminded of the early chrysanthemum show, which will be held in the Crystal Garden on October 1 and 2, and of the victory garden competition to be held at the same time. The latter will be sponsored by the centenary committee of the City Council.

Catalogues and entry forms for these competitions may be had upon application to the secretary, Aid. D. D. McTavish, at 607 Fort Street.

Jubilant in U.S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (CP).—Jubilant cheers—including those of Italian prisoners of war—echoed across the United States today as the news of Italy's surrender spread.

Impromptu parades formed. Torn paper floated from office buildings. Workers paused at their machines to shout happily, then turned back to their tasks to finish the job still ahead.

All was not shouting, however. Many were seen entering churches to offer prayers of thankfulness.

In New York's Times Square, 50,000 persons attending a War Bond celebration roared applause and slapped each other on the back when the news was announced.

Lettuce will suffer a setback in the Summer unless it is given ample water and some protection from the hot sun.

Weddings

SMITH—PARKES

Metropolitan United Church Manse was the scene of a pretty marriage when, at 10 o'clock on Monday morning, September 6, Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, D.D., officiated at the nuptials of Velma Ethel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parkes, Cartwright, Man., and L.A.C. Douglas Watt Smith, R.C.A.F., only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, Slater Street, Victoria. Wearing a becoming two-piece afternoon dress of air force blue, trimmed with sequins, navy blue accessories, and a small feather hat and veil, with corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and white heather, the bride was attended by Miss Vivian Blade as bridesmaid. Miss Blade chose shell pink silk crepe for her costume, with navy accessories, and navy blue feather hat, also corsage spray of white carnations, and forget-me-nots. Sgt. Gordon Jackson, R.C.A.F. was groomsman. Following the ceremony relations and a few close friends attended the reception held in the Princess Charlotte dining-room of the Empress Hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Dallin, friends of the bride, welcomed the guests. The three-tier wedding cake, centring the table was surrounded at the base by fronds of maidenhair fern, studded with yellow begonias, while golden chrysanthemums in large bowls at either end of the table lent a colorful note to the decorative scheme. Mr. P. Dallin proposed the toast to the bride. For a honeymoon on the Mainland, and at Qualicum Beach, the bride left in a navy and white suit, with which she wore white accessories. L.A.C. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Victoria for the immediate future.

PETTIT—HOBBS

At a civil ceremony at noon, September 8, the marriage took place between Constance Ann, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hobbs, 677 Beach Drive, and Mr. Sydney George Pettit, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pettit, Royal Oak. They will make their home at Royal Oak.

Boomer, of Edmonton, chemistry professor at the University of Alberta, as chairman of the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, was announced today by Hon. N. E. Tanner, Minister of Lands and Mines. Dr. Boomer succeeds J. J. Frawley, who has resigned to become solicitor in the Attorney-General's Department.

Other members of the board named by an order in council passed Tuesday are G. W. Northfield, Edmonton, and M. D. Kemp, Calgary.

Mr. Tanner said the new board will continue to meet at Calgary.

A man bought a canary from an animal dealer.

"You're sure this bird can sing," he said, suspiciously.

"He's a garnd singer."

The customer left. A week later he reappeared.

"Say! This bird you sold me is lame! One leg is shorter than the other."

"Well," said the animal dealer, "what do you want—a singer or a dancer?"

Luxurious Furs

Dear to the heart of every Canadian woman is natural wild Canadian mink, which makes this superb three-quarter length coat (top) designed by Joseph De Leo. The skins are rich, dark, silky and perfectly matched. The coat is made with two new features, the tiny roll-back collar that is in front only, and the turn-back cuffs which may be worn turned down if you prefer. Inspired directly by the Chinese is this beautiful broadtail Persian lamb coat (lower), designed also by Joseph De Leo, one of the foremost creators of fur fashions. When worn for daytime with a coolie hat, the hands may be tucked into the cuffs, and the effect is pure Mandarin. The little slit pockets and side slits in the coat enhance the illusion. Shown here for evening, it is accompanied by a muff of fine stone marten.

The Eugene Lists Spend Honeymoon On Concert Tour

By KATHRYN O'NEIL

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP).—How about going on a concert tour for a honeymoon? Carroll Glenn, violinist, and Eugene List, pianist, just married, did that. Both Americans, they came to Canada, entertained the R.C.A.F. at No. 1 Manning Pool, Toronto, and Carroll did her bit as guest violinist at the Promenade Symphony Concert. The bridegroom is a staff-sergeant in the United States Army, on furlough for his wedding.

But about that honeymoon. "It is simply wonderful being married to a concert pianist," Carroll declared. "It means that you can have concert performances—both violin and piano in our case—any time you want one." Incidentally they agreed Canada is an excellent spot for a honeymoon.

The diminutive violinist bride and her pianist husband declared they had never played for such an enthusiastic audience as the Canadian airmen. "They were simply wonderful to us," said the army sergeant.

WELL-KNOWN PIANIST

Eugene has been in the United States Army for eighteen months. "That doesn't seem very long to you people up here," he said, "but we've been in the war less than two years." He doesn't know whether he'll be going overseas. At present he is stationed at the Brooklyn Army Base in the personnel division of special services.

Before he joined the army, Eugene List was one of the outstanding pianists of the American concert stage. Twenty years ago at the age of five, he startled his native California with his ability at the keyboard.

Carroll is proud of her new husband. He was the hero of Juilliard School in New York where they both studied, the twenty-two-year-old Southerner explained. They met at a school tea when she was just fourteen and beginning to study music in New York. He was a post-graduate student. They lost track of each other, however, until they met on a blind date which culminated in the announcement of their engagement and their marriage in Riverside Church, New York, August 16.

They have both played in Canada singly many times before, from Victoria to Halifax, and hope to return as a team for more concert appearances.

"The R.C.A.F. men on leave in New York look so smart," List said, "and besides Carroll has always been enthusiastic about R.C.A.F. concerts."

Keep the spray can handy for use against aphids on Victory vegetable plants during the Summer. A small amount of spraying upon the first appearance of such plant lice is worth more than repeated sprayings after these insects have built up heavy infestations on the plants.

One practical rule for keeping down disease in the Victory garden is to remove immediately any plant or part of a plant which shows symptoms of a diseased condition. After digging or pulling up, such plants should be burned to check the possible spread of infection.

Time Has Not Yet Come for Celebration, Says Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt declared tonight that the armistice with Italy is "a great victory" for the United Nations but that "we must drive the Germans out of Italy."

Speaking in a radio programme launching a third war loan campaign for $15,000,000,000, the President declared that the Nazis also must be driven out of France and all other captive countries and that "we must force them on their own soil from all directions."

The ultimate objectives in the war, he said, continue to be Berlin and Tokio.

"I ask you," he said, "to bear these objectives constantly in mind—and do not forget that we still have a long way to go before attaining them.

"The great news you have heard today from General Eisenhower does not give you licence to settle back in your rocking chairs and say, 'Well, that does it. We've got 'em on the run. Now we can start the celebration.'"

The time has not come for celebration, the President declared, and the war must not stop for a single instant.

The President referred to the conferences which he and Prime Minister Churchill have been holding in the last few weeks and said they had made "new, extensive plans for the future."

But they never lost sight of the fact, he said, that the war will become bigger and tougher rather than easier, during the months to come.

The President compared the United Nations' war effort to the community task of a Middle Western city where every person pitched in to fill sandbags and hold back a destructive flood.

"Today," he said, "in the same kind of community effort, the United Nations and their people have kept the levees of civilization high enough to prevent the floods of aggression and barbarism and wholesale murder from engulfing us all.

"The flood has been raging for four years. At last, we are beginning to gain on it; but the waters have not yet receded enough for us to relax our sweating work with the sandbags. In this War Bonds campaign we are filling bags and placing them against the flood—bags which are essential if we are to stand off the ugly torrent which is trying to sweep us all away.

"Today, an armistice with Italy was concluded.

"This was a great victory for the United Nations—but it was also a great victory for the Italian people. After years of war and suffering and degradation, the Italian people are at last coming to the day of liberation from their real enemies, the Nazis.

"But let us not delude ourselves that this armistice means the end of the war in the Mediterranean. We must drive the Germans out of Italy as we have driven them out of Tunisia and Sicily; we must drive them out of France and all other captive countries; and we must strike them on their own soil from all directions."

Mr. Roosevelt told his radio audience it was up to them to prove to their fellow Americans on the fighting fronts that they are contributing more than their share to the cause.

No one knows, the President told his countrymen, when total victory will come. Success of the Third War Loan drive he said, will be a symbol that America knows of the tough, bitter job ahead and will not stop until it is finished.

Earlier, Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau said: "The fall of Italy is glorious news—if we take it as the end of round one instead of the finish of the fight."

The Treasury has set a goal of at least $5,000,000,000 in war bond sales to individuals. The balance of the quota is expected to be subscribed by insurance companies, corporations, and other business firms except banks, which have been excluded for the first time from participating in a war loan.

responsible for these inhuman deeds.

Graves containing thousands of bodies were found in the forests outside Orel. Bodies of children who had been buried alive were found in ditches. Some inmates of the camp were poisoned and others executed in batches almost every morning. Mass abductions of men and women for work as slaves in Germany preceded the Germans' retreat.

The latest Royal Air Force raid on Munich, in which Canadian pilots shared, was so heavy that the German fighter defences failed. The Nazis attempted new tactics at Mannheim earlier in the week, using a powerful anti-aircraft barrage. At Munich they used flares again dropped from fighters at great heights.

However, before these ceased falling, some invading bombers had dropped loads on targets and others were able to stop the enemy and shoot him down. Flares made a patch of light two miles long. Last thing seen at Munich was a deep red flame from a terrific explosion, followed by billowing clouds of black smoke.

Starvation in Greece has again become alarming, says The Times special correspondent at Smyrna. Food prices have reached astronomical figures. Only on the islands close to the Turkish Coast is there anything like adequate supplies—thanks to foodstuffs sent by the Canadian Government.

It is probable the Italians will evacuate the Dodecanese Islands apart from Leros, which the Germans hold. Italian troops have been told peace is imminent. Even the Germans on the spot do not now believe they can hold the Ægean Islands.

Sir Earl Page, leader of the Australian Country party, has approved a consultative Empire council project outlined by Premier Curtin in an interview with The Times representative. He recalls the suggestion first made by Premier Deakin thirty-six years ago, but the jealousy in each part of the British Commonwealth over the control of its own policy and military air forces stood in the way.

He suggested a preliminary move might be to interchange senior departmental officers in foreign offices and defence services, and those dealing with Empire development. If interchange with Canada, South Africa, New Zealand and India could be arranged on the basis already existing with the United Kingdom for conduct of the war, the main difficulties would be overcome and an Empire-wide appreciation of Empire problems made possible.

Navy League Chapter

Mrs. R. Shanks, vice-regent of Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., presided at the meeting held at headquarters on Wednesday evening. Articles for the Victory Fair were turned in to the convener and it was announced that final preparations for this gala event are well in hand. The affair takes place on Monday at the Crystal Garden.

Mrs. H. W. Biggin, war convener, reported knitted comforts for service personnel and children in bombed areas were turned in to Municipal Chapter during August, valued at $4[illegible].

A donation of $50 was voted towards secondary education; other donations were voted as follows: Mary Croft Memorial, $5; Sea Cadets, $12; $2.50 to an isolated family and $25 towards the purchase of ditty bags for the boys in the services.

Maisky, Eden And Winant At Luncheon

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP).—The first actual Anglo-Soviet-American meeting since a tripartite parley was proposed at the recent Quebec conference took place here today when Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had luncheon with Ivan Maisky, Soviet Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs, and United States Ambassador John G. Winant.

The luncheon came on the heels of President Roosevelt's announcement that prospects for a Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin meeting were brighter. The fact that the wives of the three diplomats were present at today's luncheon was interpreted here as meaning the spadework for the conference had been completed in the friendliest atmosphere.

Maisky, Eden and Winant had been meeting heretofore in pairs with all three being together at one time.

Victory Concert At Beacon Hill Park Wednesday

A tremendous crowd, estimated at 5,000 persons, attended the regular cheer-up concert in Beacon Hill Park, which turned into a grand victory celebration and a parade of real talent, Wednesday night.

Sgt. Curly Perullo, master of ceremonies, opened the concert with more than the usual formality, and Alderman J. H. Davies explained the reason for starting the concerts following Dunkerque when a little cheer seemed necessary. He told the audience it would be appropriate to celebrate the Italian capitulation.

Those who have given their lives in the war were remembered with a solemn minute of silence, and the hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers" was sung by all.

The concert began with service troupes singing popular songs. About thirty sailors mounted the platform to sing "Over the Waves," followed by the army and the C.W.A.C.'s singing as one group.

Another large group of R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. personnel, together with members of the women's division of the R.C.A.F., took their turn. They featured a young American air force girl, who danced the "Lambeth Walk" with a handsome R.A.F. partner.

One of several voluntary artists was a little old Irishwoman, seventy-was a little old Irishwoman, seventy-four years young, who danced the Irish jog, and won over the audience completely.

Eight competitors mounted the platform, first prize going to Sgt. Lillos, R.C.A.M.C., who has appeared several times on these programmes.

Sgt. Lillos' splendid voice created a clamor for more. He sang "Danny Boy" and other popular selections, winning thirty-two points as against eight won by the next competitor, L.A.C. Smith, R.A.F., of London, England. Third prize was won by Stoker J. Upper, of Niagara Falls.

The enthusiastic crowd and the success of the concert prompted Alderman Davies to say that he felt all his hard work was amply rewarded.

Another concert will be held Friday. "We are taking advantage of the weather we are having," said the alderman.

Preserving Corn By Drying Process

Corn may be preserved satisfactorily by drying, and the Colorado Extension Service has prepared some directions for the benefit of those who wish to treat it this way, when it is right of immediate eating. Work fast—never let corn stand very long before drying. Husk the corn, and remove any blemishes. You do not need to silk it—the silks separate easily from the kernels after they are dried. Steam the corn for ten minutes or boil it from eight to twelve minutes, or until the milk is set. Then drain the corn, cool it, and cut it from the cob.

To dry the corn by controlled heat, spread the kernels on trays one-half to three-fourths inches deep and dry at 130 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Stir to separate the grains. While drying, the corn should be moist to the touch and cooler than the air flowing over it.

Properly dried corn is hard, brittle, and semi-transparent. The kernels break cleanly when crushed. Seal dried corn immediately in moisture-proof containers and store in a cool, dark, dry place. Examine them once in a while. If you see any signs of moisture, reheat the corn to 165 degrees Fahrenheit, and reseal in the containers.

Wire trays or screens, or slat trays covered with cheesecloth, are best because they let air circulate under the corn as well as over it.

Dry the corn on an outdoor shelf, a roof slanting to the south, or in sunny windows. Stir it two or three times each day while it is drying. Take it in at night and whenever rain is expected. Pack and store it as described above.

Engineers Hear Excellent Talks At Convention

An interesting discussion by F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, on, "Legal Points of Interest to Engineers" commenced the afternoon session yesterday of the first convention of the municipal engineers of British Columbia, being held in the Oak Bay Municipal Hall on Wednesday and Thursday.

Approximately twenty delegates from all parts of the province were present at the convention, which was opened at 9:30 Wednesday morning by Reeve W. L. Woodhouse, a business session ensuing during the morning.

Following Mr. Shaw's address, A. L. Carruthers, chief bridge engineer of the Public Works Department, gave a talk on matters of joint interest to the municipal engineers, in the place of H. C. Anderson, who was called suddenly to Vancouver.

A. S. G. Musgrave, municipal engineer of Oak Bay, concluded with an address, entitled "Sundry Engineering Problems of a Municipality of 10,000 People."

The engineers then visited various engineering projects and local gardens of Oak Bay.

A talk by George F. Fountain, city surveyor of Vancouver, on "Subdivision Control," followed by a visit to Elk Lake to see the new water supply to Patricia Bay airport will highlight the programme today.

The convention will conclude with a dinner in the Empress Hotel this evening, where the delegates will be the guests of Oak Bay Municipality, with Reeve Woodhouse as chairman. A speech will be given by the Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Public Works.

School Board To Rent Hall to Musical Arts

The Victoria School Board will offer the auditorium of Victoria High School to the Victoria Musical Art Society at $40 a night, in answer to a request from the society, which formerly held recitals in the Empress Hotel ballroom, for the use of the auditorium for recitals during the coming season.

Trustee Mrs. Margaret Christie said that they had had difficulty in procuring a second piano for two-piano recitals in the past, and pointed out that it was a purely local society.

Trustee C. Parrott's motion acceding to the request was seconded by Trustee W. A. Bayliss, who stated it was the policy of the school board to use school property for the civic good.

An exhibit of blackened and bent cutlery won the board's approval of Mrs. Christie's recommendation that the High School cafeteria be authorized to purchase $100 worth of equipment to replace nicked and battered utensils.

Request of the Military School of Piping for use of the North Ward School auditorium two nights a week was referred to the buildings and grounds committee, and the suggestion was made by one trustee that if neighbors, who had heard the Girls' Pipe Band practising outside, still complained, the janitor could lock them in the school for the practice period.

The establishment of an officer training course company at Victoria College, contingent to the C.O.T.C. at the University of British Columbia, was approved by the board.

A request of the Royal Astronomical Society for use of the lecture hall at Victoria College, on the second Wednesday of the month from October to April, was granted on the motion of Trustee W. A. Bayliss.

WARN BULGARIA

ISTANBUL, Sept. 8 (AP).—Allied planes have been making regularly-[illegible] flights over Bulgaria dropping "clock leaflets" warning Bulgarians that the zero hour for them is fast approaching, one traveler reported on arriving here today. The leaflets carry a warning to Bulgaria to get out of the war while there is still time.

Escapes From Oakalla

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (CP).—Tommy Skin, twenty-six, an Indian from Burns Lake, B.C., escaped from Oakalla Prison Farm today. Provincial Police and prison guards late tonight still were scouring the surrounding bush for Skin, who had served one month of a six-month term for assault occasioning grevious bodily harm.

Lawn Bowling

The Yarrow Cup competition was brought to a successful conclusion on Monday. The keenly contested final game was an exhibition of expert bowling which frequently drew cheers from the large crowd assembled. W. Peden and his partner, C. A. Hislop, who were the winners, got away to a slow start, but once established they quickly forged ahead, the former putting in some exceptionally good shots.

In the semi-finals, Peden beat Gibson, 21 to 15; Fyvie beat Davey, 17 to 12, and the final result was Peden 20, Fyvie 11.

SAVE THE CHILDREN FUND

On Saturday on the Crystal Garden green, there will be mixed rinks at 2 o'clock, and in the evening, at 7 o'clock, a game in which fancy or hard times dress is optional, in aid of the above fund.

There will be tombolas, home cooking stall, refreshments and other attractions, and all visiting bowlers are cordially invited to attend.

Murder Trial Continuing

SASKATOON, Sept. 8 (CP).—A Saskatchewan Court of King's Bench jury was told today at the murder trial of Tr. James W. Clark, twenty, of Hamilton, Ont., that Clark had threatened to "clean up on" Tr. Ernest A. Clifford, nineteen, of Toronto.

Tr. Clark allegedly stabbed Tr. Clifford last July 7 at Dundurn military camp.

Nine days earlier, while the two soldiers attended a public school wiener roast in the district, Nicholi Koop, a fourteen-year-old schoolboy, testified Tr. Clark told him that if Tr. Clifford "doesn't mind his own business I will clean up on him."

Tr. Peter Huyman told how he and Tr. R. M. Taylor had found Tr. Clark on the night of July 8, hiding in a coal bin at Dundurn camp.

Mrs. Marie Anna Lahoda said she had seen the two soldiers at a wiener roast. Miss M. E. Weir, district school teacher, had given her pupils June 28.

Asked by H. C. Hogarth, Crown prosecutor, "What Clifford was called at the wiener roast," Mrs. Lahoda said some children called him "Mouthy" and others called him "Cliff."

The trial before Mr. Justice P. M. Anderson will continue tomorrow.

Senior C.W.L. to Send Christmas Parcels Overseas

The Christmas parcels of cigarettes to be sent overseas to soldiers from the Cathedral Parish received first consideration when the C.W.L. Senior Subdivision of Victoria met in the parish hall, View Street, on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. Roy Kissinger and Mrs. P. C. Shaw were named as a committee to obtain names and addresses, and to send the gifts at once.

A country fair in aid of St. Louis College has been planned for October 5. Various booths and stalls were selected, and the general convener, Mrs. Shaw, will be assisted by Mrs. A. L. Battle, Mrs. A. Gillis, Mrs. E. Lennax and Mrs. Roy Kissinger. An announcement was made of an afternoon tea for the Cathedral Altar Society on September 21, at the home of Mrs. Boyle, 606 Trutch Street, from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Volunteers to aid the Victoria Community Chest drive beginning next month were called for. Mrs. Blair Reid, the convener, with ten assistants will sort cards and canvass the homes. Congratulations were extended to the ladies who successfully organized a banquet for the C.Y.O. at the diocesan convention last month.

Miss Harriet O'Brien will visit St. Joseph's Hospital during September. Mrs. Roy Kissinger and Mrs. C. Johnson completed a full report of the Summer vacation. Mrs. Blair Reid gave reports on housing and hospitality. Mrs. Kissinger, convener of Red Cross, presented an outline of work to benefit the merchant marine and other Red Cross branches. Knitting and sewing materials will be distributed to workers by Mrs. Kissinger, Mrs. Shaw or Mrs. B. Reid.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Baker, D.P., V.G., chaplain of the senior subdivision, addressed the meeting and congratulated the C.W.L. on the excellent work outlined. He mentioned particularly the weekly parish social to be held Wednesday evenings in the parish hall, and gave the programme and features for the coming season.

The annual diocesan convention of the C.W.L. will be held October 16 and 17 at St. Andrew's Cathedral. Mrs. P. C. Shaw, assisted by Mrs. A. L. Battle, Mrs. A. F. Windau, Mrs. Blair Reid and Mrs. Kissinger, is in charge of the programme and entertainment.

At the Canadian National Missionary Exhibition being held in Toronto from October 15 to 18, Rev. Fr. L. J. Bradley will be in charge of the British Columbia exhibit. To help defray expenses, the C.W.L. will be in charge of a special collection to be taken up at all the Masses on Sunday. Before adjourning, the officials of the cathedral Red Cross emergency rest centre were given instructions, and Mrs. Hunter was named acting convener of citizenship.

Celebrations of Victory in Canada Are Ordered Canceled

Premier King First Announces Nation-Wide Rejoicing But Plans Are Later Abandoned

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—The three armed services late today were ordered not to take part in celebrations planned across Canada to mark the Italian capitulation.

All official sources kept silent when asked why the action was taken. High officials of the External Affairs Department went into conference in the east block on Parliament Hill.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the next information comes from overseas," said one Defence Department informant.

The cancellation of participation by navy, army and air force units in victory ceremonies—set for 8 o'clock, local time—came only a few hours after Prime Minister Mackenzie King called on Canadians to join in "rejoicing from one end of Canada to the other."

Whistles blew on Ottawa factories at 5 p.m., for the cancellation came too late for word to be sent around. People came downtown to see the planned celebration on the Hill, only to be disappointed because it was not held.

Air force public relations was the first to advise The Canadian Press that the celebration plans were off. They withdrew, too, statements on Italy's capitulation which had been sent "to all ranks of the R.C.A.F." by Air Minister Power and Air Marshall L. S. Breadner, chief of air staff.

GIVE NO REASON FOR CANCELLATION

Spokesmen for all three services said they had no information for the press on the reason for the cancellation order. They declined even to say from whom the instructions came.

The Wartime Information Board, which had issued a statement on arrangements being made to mark the capitulation, also informed The Canadian Press all plans were canceled.

It had been intended that service personnel—men and women—would take part in any ceremonies arranged by local authorities.

Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, chief of naval staff, had signaled all naval establishments in Canada, of the celebration plans. Similar information was sent to army and air force officials by Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of general staff, and Air Marshal Breadner.

The signal or national rejoicing was given by Prime Minister King, on the last day of the fourth year of war for Canada, at a press conference and in a brief address over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

He welcomed the news of the Italian armistice with unreserved satisfaction, but with a warning that the war is not yet over.

It was understood the terms of the armistice granted by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Allied Commander-In-Chief, were submitted to the Canadian Government for approval before the armistice was signed.

In his statement Gen. Eisenhower announced he acted with the authority of the Governments of the United States, Great Britain and Russia.

Mr. King was happy and excited when he met newspaper correspondents just after the news arrived and a few minutes before he went on the air with a brief message to the Canadian people.

He said he was thankful the Canadian Army had been able to play a role in the reduction of Italy and foresaw a role for it in the coming assault on Nazi Germany.

Mr. King, in his prepared statement to his press conference, and later on the radio, said:

"Let there be rejoicing from one end of Canada to the other, but let the rejoicing be accompanied by a resolve on the part of each that from now on, as never before, the minds, the wills, the energies of all shall be united in a determination to encompass, in the quickest possible time, the defeat of the remaining Axis powers."

"Gentlemen," he told newspapermen, "I have this to add.

"I have asked the carillon in the Peace Tower to play in honor of this occasion. Salutes will be fired; church bells may ring all across the country."

Four years ago today the Canadian Parliament debated Canada's stand on the war then starting in Europe with the German attack on Poland and declarations of war on Germany by Britain and France.

Mr. King made his main speech enunciating the Government's policy of full participation at the side of Britain and Parliament endorsed the policy by adopting the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The next day, September 9, Canada's declaration of war on Germany was signed.

Strike Ballot Will Be Held By Miners

CALGARY, Sept. 8 (CP).—The executive board of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, announced today a strike ballot would be held September 21 in connection with demands of the membership for higher wages and holidays with pay.

A statement issued by the board said the Western Canada Bituminous Coal Operators' Association refused to meet the mine workers to discuss the situation, and a meeting September 1 with a committee representing Drumheller and Lethbridge coal operators achieved no progress.

The demands, formulated at a recent district convention, are:

1. Increase of $2 for all employees, and time and a half rate for the sixth day of the week.

May Reverse Hannibal's Historic March

—Map From London Sphere, King Features Syndicate

THE Allies may reverse Hannibal's historic march through the Alps, in invading France from Italy. Modern equipment would make their difficulties much less than his. The Carthaginian warrior left his base at New Carthage, in Spain, in the year 218 B.C. with 90,000 foot soldiers, 12,000 horses and thirty-seven elephants, crossed the Pyrenees, gained the Rhone, defeated the Gauls, and crossed the Alps in fifteen days, along the route shown above. His troops, reared under African and Spanish suns, perished in thousands amid ice and snow. On the Italian side, he had but 20,000 foot and 6,000 horse, but he overcame the Taurini, forced Ligurian and Celtic tribes to serve in his army, and at the Ticinus drove back the Romans under Scipio. The first great battle was fought at Trebia, where 40,000 men of the Roman consular army were cut to pieces. After wintering in the valley of the Po, Hannibal crossed the Apennines, wasted Etruria with fire and sword, and marched towards Rome. At Cannae, he destroyed another Roman army of 80,000 men. But after Cannae the tide turned. For four years Hannibal stood as bay in the hill-country, till in 202 he was recalled to Africa to repel a Roman invasion.

Canadians Tell of New Nazi Defence

Flares Prove Aid to Attackers at Munich

WITH THE CANADIAN BOMBER GROUP, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 8 (CP)—Canadian airmen who participated in Monday night's heavy attack on Munich told of an altered German defence technique, adding it wasn't particularly effective.

The Nazis dropped many brilliant flares to indicate the track of the big bombers and silhouette them for night fighters.

But the flares didn't help the defenders much because they also enabled the bombers to spot the fighters.

Flt. Sgt. J. R. Pollock, of Saskatoon, said "it was as bright as day over Munich. The fires were visible for 175 miles as the planes winged home."

P.O. J. H. Mason, of North Vancouver, B.C., was pilot of a Lancaster which spotted a score of fighters over the target. They attacked a nearby Lancaster but didn't seem to cause any damage, he said.

Other Canadians flying Lancasters included P.O. L. G. Pritchard, of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Sqdn. Ldr. W. A. S. Parks, of Verwood, Sask., making his first trip as a squadron leader since his promotion three days ago.

Several Canadians also manned the medium Mitchell bombers which successfully attacked the marshalling yards at St. Omer in Northern France today.

"I think the target was well hit," said Sgt. H. A. Hester, thirty-year-old pilot of Mission City, B.C.

Others expressing the same opinion included Sgts. D. R. Adamson, of Prince Albert, Sask., and E. R. Johnson, Oak Lake, Man.

Costly Look

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 8 (AP)—John W. Burrell, sixty-seven, handyman, regretted that he looked at his alarm clock yesterday morning. Burrell struck a match to see the clock, then went back to sleep and awoke later to find the match which he believed extinguished had ignited his trousers. The trousers contained $1,058.

Every Member of Class Commissioned

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 (CP)—Every member of an all-Canadian class of navigators was commissioned upon presentation of flying badges at No. 5 Air Observer School, R.C.A.F., it was announced here by No. 2 Training Command.

It was the first time in the history of the command that all members of a graduation class received immediate commissions. All were commissioned pilot officers.

The graduates included: British Columbia: R. W. Archer, Penticton; W. B. Lowther, Vancouver; E. F. Messmer, Powell River; G. A. Finlayson, Revelstoke; T. M. Youngberg, Kamloops; R. A. Younie, Vedder Crossing.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MENTAL FITNESS AS NECESSARY FOR ARMY AS PHYSICAL FITNESS

Thirty-eight army men had been sent to one of the mental hospitals in Great Britain for observation. Of this number, thirty-one were found to be unfit for any form of military service. Had the whole previous history of these thirty-one men been known to the army medical examining officers, it is not likely that they would have been allowed to enter the army.

The United States has been quick to recognise these findings in Great Britain and the Selective Service System has issued a circular to the army medical officers in which it points out that an efficient army does not want men who are feeble minded, insane or have behavior disorders. Many of these men are able to carry on in civilian life because they are familiar with their surroundings and their regular occupations. Placed amid the unfamiliar surroundings and unusual occupations of military life, together with military discipline and separation from their families, they develop various types of mental disorder.

The circular outlines the eight categories in which these mental or behavior cases are to be placed: 1, mental defect; 2, behavior defect; 3, serious or abnormal mood conditions; 4, hysterical, anxious and obsessional neuroses (believing one has a disease when no disease is present), and fatigue or slight effort; 5, personality changes such as persistent day-dreaming; 6, addiction to alcohol or drugs; 7, syphilis of the central nervous system; 8, all organic disease of the nervous system.

Formerly, general practitioners referred all nervous or mental cases of which they were suspicious to mental specialists, but as mental specialists are not numerous enough to examine all recruits, this circular causes the examining medical officer to be alert to spot or pick out any recruits that might fit one or more of the eight categories of the circular.

What have been the results of this careful selection of recruits from the mental standpoint? Drs. C. R. Atwell, W. Bloomberg and F. L. Wells, in the New England Journal of Medicine, state that of 5,010 men inducted into the army in Massachusetts, 199 were referred for measurement of their mental ability or condition. Of these, 79 received a mental age rating of less than twelve years, which at the time was taken as the age level required for the service.

CARNIVAL WORKER FINED

AJAX, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP)—Magistrate F. S. Ebbs yesterday fined Joseph Smith, of Vancouver, $275 and costs and confiscated a wheel-of-fortune and $109 in cash seized by police officers at a carnival near here last week. The fine was levied after officers told a court they found only one winner at a horse-racing wheel which paid off at 5 to 1—and the one winner, the officers said, worked for the carnival.

The light of a pine knot on a hearth was what some boys in the old days had to use for study; some of them learned more than those who have now fine electric lights.

Highway Cost $115,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (CP).—The cost of the Alaska Highway was set at $115,000,000 in a report by General George Marshall, United States Army chief of staff.

He revealed that 10,000 American troops were used in the construction of the 1,480-mile pioneer road, built between March and October in 1942.

"Improvements currently under way," the report continued, "provide for a twenty-six-foot roadbed width, with surfacing placed to a width of from twenty to twenty-two feet. Local materials, including gravel and crushed stone, will be utilized in this surfacing.

It is estimated that the cost of constructing the pioneer road, together with improving it to present proposed standards, will be $115,000,000, which figure includes the replacement of a considerable number of temporary structures destroyed during the Spring thaw.

SHORTAGE OF LABOR

EDMONTON, Sept. 8 (CP).—A. O. MacLachlan, acting manager of the employment and claims branch, said here today there is a shortage of about 3,000 common laborers in the Edmonton area. Men are needed for highway and airport construction and for packing plants, coal mines, lumber camps and on farms, he said.

The Flight Sergeant Who Was "Lucky"

By L. L. WINSHIP
(North American Newspaper Alliance)

LONDON.—The custom is that people who ride in railway compartments in England do not talk to one another, but Sergeant Arthur McLemore and I, being alone, took a chance. He was on his way north to a bomber station to pick up the belongings of his youngest brother, reported lost on a raid over Germany.

This is what the sergeant said, in the railway compartment:

"I was the first to leave home, in Mississippi; I went to Canada when the war started, trained seven months and then came over here. I guess I'm responsible for my three brothers following me. They came in order: The next youngest and then the next youngest to him and then the youngest, who just had it."

Sgt. McLemore's three brothers were killed flying, in the order in which they enlisted. The way the sergeant said it was: "They had it."

"I was the only lucky one in the family," he said.

"How come you were so lucky?" I asked.

"Well, I broke my neck," he replied. He was "lucky" to break his neck, because it kept him in a plaster cast for nine months. As an R.A.F. pilot he had been on sixteen bombing raids over Germany and ten "gardening jobs" . . . planting mines. They are sown like seed. McLemore's "luck" came on the way home.

LIKE SPRAY FROM HOSE

"A bunch of fighters found us," he related. "We had been caught in the searchlights, and it was just like being sprayed with a garden hose. But we got away and I thought we had lost all the Jerry fighters. Four of the crew had it; all the others, except the radio man, were wounded.

"Then another Jerry came out of nowhere. We had nothing to fight back with, but we kept on going, off our course and hit the deck on the Isle of Man." (When you "hit the deck" you crash on land; when you crash into the sea you "ditch.")

"How did you get out of the plane?" I asked the sergeant.

"They say I shot through the top of the bomber. The radio man had it when the plane burned. A farmer saw me lying on a hill and thought I was dead. I'm lucky always. If he had moved me with a broken neck it would have been too bad. Then an R.A.F. orthopedic doctor found me and sent for two pails of plaster of Paris and put it all over me, clothes and all."

"What did you do during those nine months; read a lot?" (He had been studying to be an Episcopal rector before the war.)

"I guess I spent most of the time learning to wiggle my toes."

The sergeant can wiggle everything now. "What's that goldfish on your sleeve?" I wanted to know.

"You get that the first time you ditch," he said. Under the goldfish was a wavy bar. You get one of these every other time you ditch. So McLemore's luck included landing in the North Sea a couple of times. He didn't like to recall the times he ditched, because he lost most of his crew both times.

"The second time I didn't even write a report about it," he said. "Only three of us got out. The dinghy (rubber boat) was upside down and we were so tired we couldn't even swim to it. I'd got my shoes off. You have from thirty seconds to four minutes to get out of the plane and you know just what to do, like a fire drill in school.

THE PILOT "DITCHED"

"But we were so tired. I got to the dinghy but I couldn't turn it over. Then I saw the tail gunner sitting alone on the tail with his Mae West (inflated life preserver) on. I told him to come over and help me turn the dinghy over. He just sat there. I wasn't excited, I just talked to him like a child. I said: 'You've got to come over here and help me.' Finally, he slipped off the tail and hung on there. Then I heard him gurgling water. I knew then he had it.

"The mid-upper gunner was in the water, only four feet away, but it seemed to take him an awful long time to come those four feet. We turned the boat over. The paddles were still in it and we paddled around in the North Sea. Toward morning we saw one of those rescue floats which are anchored all over the North Sea. They're just like hotels. You go down the hatch and there are beds and hot coffee and radio and blankets and books and everything. I wanted to get into it, but just then a launch came along and we came on home. But it's no fun coming home without your ship and crew."

We both stared out the train window. A flock of bombers were just coming over the horizon, high above the very blue and very peaceful North Sea.

"Well, I guess you've made your last trip with those boys," I said. Sgt. McLemore's job now is a desk job in the office of Colonel Lester Lear.

He looked across at me for a long minute and said, "Well, I guess it's no harm in telling now, and Colonel Lear couldn't kick because I wasn't in the American Air Force then, but I've been over Germany nine times since I got out of the hospital."

"How do you mean?"

"I've got a lot of friends in the R.A.F. They let me ride along."

So while he was convalescing from a broken neck, Sgt. McLemore rode a bomber over Bremen and Cologne and such places. It was probably against all the rules of the R.A.F. and it certainly is against all the rules of common sense and safety, but the boys who ride the bombers seem to be living by a set of rules of their own.

Boeing to Start Factory at Nelson

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (CP).—Boeing Aircraft of Canada, Ltd., announced today it will establish a sub-factory at Nelson, B.C., the latter part of this month.

President Stanley Burke said arrangements have been completed to take over a section of the $350,000 civic arena, where belt frames and small sub-assembly work will be manufactured by an estimated 250 employees, over 60 per cent of whom will be women.

It is the third unit in Boeing's decentralization programme, other plants having been opened at Victoria and Chilliwack.

THREE YEARS FOR BIGAMIST

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 8 (CP).—William Stanley Martin, of Vancouver and Kingston, was sentenced to three years in Kingston penitentiary when he was found guilty on a charge of bigamy. Two women gave evidence they were married to Martin.

CHAPTER III

Option did not live up to its promise.

"Pop. 2,500," a guide book had said. "Mining and lumbering; equable climate; alt. 4,128; noted for good churches, schools, and friendly progressive citizens." Rosemary, an Eastern girl new in the West, found everything confusing.

"But there's got to be lumber, and bricks, and all that!" she declared to the local committee of twelve meeting with her. She emphasized the got.

"Yes'm but they just ain't," a two-fisted town mayor in a leather jacket answered. "You see, miss, there is a mill, up in the forest. And rightly it had a whole yard of good cured lumber. But it's been hauled away these three weeks. A stranger come in and bought everything."

"I don't care." That aviation field has got to be built at once. With headquarters, and hangars, and school rooms, and barracks for the men."

"But there ain't materials!"

"I don't care!"

I don't care. A woman's answer. Illogical, but uncompromising. The mayor of Option grinned, and so did the men around him. Rosemary looked defiant.

An insurance man spoke up, hopefully.

"If there was just some way to hold 'em for a while—we could get new materials in five, six months, Miss Lee."

"No! Uncle Sam can't wait. There's a war on. Don't you understand? We've got to have the new training field as soon as possible."

They grinned again. This Miss Lee—cute little trick out of Washington—was plenty full of pepper, but facts are facts.

"If you don't help me," Rosemary said frantically, "I—well I'll just go to another town, that's all! I can do it! I represent the architects' office. Mr. St. Clair sent me here to do this and he'll back me up! He's my boss. If—if—" She decided an appeal to civic pride was her best bet. "If you don't want all the good business that a new training field will bring, then some other town will want it!"

The mayor looked a little devilish. "Might try Lightning," said he. "It's got more houses than Option, I know. It had 12,000 people once, although I can't be sure how many it's got just now!"

The men all grinned broadly. But Rosemary's chin lifted. "All right, I will try Lightning, then. Is—is it near here?"

"It's the next closest town, ma'am. Up in Purple Canyon, hardly twelve miles out. It's closer'n we are to your airport site, in fact."

She stopped the conference quickly, after that. She was sick of them anyway. Their too benevolent, too tolerant attitude, as if she were a child. She wished she hadn't dressed in chic sport clothes, she should have worn a coat suit and spectacles on a black ribbon. She wished Little Boss were here. "You get off and start the ball rolling, Rosemary," he had ordered. "I must have three hours in San Francisco, then I'll rush right back and join you." She had left him with high confidence, that sundown at the door of the Pullman.

And now if he came back today she would have no progress to show him. Only disappointment, for themselves as well as for the Government. This airfield was an urgent matter. Somebody had betrayed a trust—she knew that now; that somebody was named Boyle. He had sold Uncle Sam a bill of goods. The purchasing department back in Washington—that's where Harry Boyle rated—had assured them that abundant building materials were at hand. But now—

Rosemary wanted to cry again. Not so much in personal hurt this time, not so much of what Harry Boyle had done to her own heart; but now in sheer desperate anger, and determination to thwart him at all costs.

The very first day in Option she had learned how Boyle turned some of his graft. He bought land at $5 an acre—"useless land, unfit land even for grazing"—and sold it to Uncle Sam for $300. Also, he gave forged assurance that all necessary building materials were on the ground. He had bought up those materials and shipped them away or stored them. Long legal measures would be necessary for confiscation if the materials could be found at all, she knew. And confiscation is never a popular thing with the citizens because it breeds worry and fear.

She didn't want to have anything more to do with that past crookedness and profiteering. The original deal had been too close to her own heart back in Washington—another reason why she so thoroughly despised a man. Little Boss had gained some hint of it, back there. He had even made a hurried investigation.

"I never got to meet this Boyle," he reported in his own office. "Anyway I'm sure we could prove nothing on him, now. He'd have kept within the law. A long back-trailing would simply delay the airport, so we'd better take the land as is and go ahead and build. This will give you a chance to go West, too, Rosemary, and get away from your own troublesome boy friend. I don't like to see you unhappy."

Little Boss, who was William St. Clair, had never guessed that Harry Boyle and her "troublesome boy friend" were the same man! Little Boss hadn't even guessed that the other man could be more than a war profiteer; that he was, in reality, a beastial person, vindictive, cruel. Back there, of course, Rosemary couldn't have told him; no more than she could now.

"Well, at least I'm away from Harry," she whispered to herself, here on the main street of Option. "Away forever, I hope. I—I can work out something in time, even though I hate to have to go through—" She didn't phrase the rest of it, the part she now dreaded most of all. She wanted to work here impersonally, so hard as she could.

She decided that the best immediate course was to buy a car. It would be essential out here. As a government girl she could even get a new one, on priority, but she actually did buy a good used model. She would drive it to Lightning; 12,000 population there, the mayor of Option had said. Surely in a town of 12,000 the people would have patriotism and civic pride. But first she'd meet the train, on the off chance that Little Boss returned today.

At 1:58 p.m. she was at the station, running along the slowing Pullmans, looking anxiously in.

"I don't see him," she murmured fearfully.

Next moment a porter was dropping a stool step one car behind her, then she saw another porter two cars ahead. She saw Little Boss step off. He saw her, too, and hastened to greet her, smiling beaming.

"Hi!" he acted like an overgrown boy, for all his thirty-one years. "Didn't expect you to meet me. But I brought you another box of candy, and a new book about the West."

"Gee, 'Little Boss!'" that term slipped out. But he must have known his nickname, from the office at home. She turned to walk with him. "I'm so glad you came today. We've got to go to Lightning, over in Purple Canyon, because the—"

She stopped still, frozen in her tracks.

Harry Boyle had gotten off the other Pullman, and was standing there smirking at her in feigned surprise.

To Help Farmers On the Prairies

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP).—Selective Service officials said today that about 225 men from Ottawa district already have entrained for the West to help prairie farmers harvest the grain crop. Officials said most of the men will likely be placed on farms in Western Canada, although a few might get work across the border in the Northern United States where a shortage of manpower is acute.

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE GIANTS NEED FORCE

The New York Giants of today, like forty years ago, need a sweeping change, not meaning Manager Mel Ott. They need a vital force in the front office, which means authority and cash such as the Yankees have had with Ed Barrow, such as the Dodgers had with Larry McPhail, such as the Cardinals have had with Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey, the latter now with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Giants have had too many great teams, have written too much baseball history, have been too vital a part of the game for more than sixty years to occupy their present place in the dismal grotto of the game.

Today all the Giants have left is a franchise, a ball park and Mel Ott, a manager who could turn in a fine job even with half a chance. The Yanks have been the dominant team of New York and the American League for many years. The Dodgers under Branch Rickey will be up there swinging although they have given up hope of capturing the flag. But Giants of McGraw, Mathewson, Bresnahan, Marquard, Young, Bancroft, Nehf and many others—winners of ten pennants—will get nowhere until there is a change at the top, until there is a front office that has the hustle and cash to carry out its plan for a new order.

If the New York club only had another Mathewson to turn in victories for them as Matty did for the late Mr. McGraw. In 1908 Matty won thirty games; the following season he won thirty-three, and in 1905 he captured thirty-one. In 1908 with a sore arm he came through with thirty-seven wins. He also went sixty-eight innings without issuing a base on balls and struck out more than 2,000 batters before he wound up his colorful career with the Cincinnati Reds.

Comment: Thanks for the map from across the border. Mr. B[illegible] but I'm afraid that I know nothing about the history of the Yorkshire Cricket Club. Of course we all have read about most of those famous bowlers you mention in your letter. Cricket lost a great player in Hedley Verity and it was too bad that he had to "answer the call" in a German prison camp.

Swim Gala Tonight

Services to Seek Honors at Garden

With keen rivalry expected in all events members of the Royal Canadian Navy, Army and Royal Air Force will vie for honors this evening at the monster swimming gala to be staged at the Crystal Garden.

Arranged by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, the meet promises to be one of the most interesting of the late summer season. Many of the leading natators are now wearing the uniform of the armed forces and Victoria fans are assured of seeing quite a few top-notch performers in action.

Royal Air Force will have a strong contingent on hand including their provincial champion relay team, and their smart water polo squad. From the Navy will be sent, stars as John and Gordon Booth, brother swimmers from Port Alberni, a number of other outstanding performers. The Army representative, according to reports, will also carry a number of speed artists.

In addition to the individual events, relay races and a water polo game are listed, and as a special attraction, an aquatic exhibition has been arranged. Dolphin Ray, Victoria's aquacultural specialist, is slated to perform a number of his more intricate dives.

The programme will get under way at 8 o'clock. Considerable preliminary interest has been displayed and with some of Canada's top natators in action, officials are looking for a bumper turnout.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP).—War shares dropped and many of those carrying the Wall Street tag of "peace" issues rose briskly in the Stock Exchange today in response to news of Italy's unconditional surrender.

Selling was concentrated in steels, motors, aircrafts and rails. Their final losses ranged from fractions to around 1½ points. The buying rush was centred in such stocks as International Telephone, American Can, Continental Can, American Airlines, United Air Lines and Pepsi-Cola, and gains here ran to as much as 2 points.

Farm implements rallied a little before the finish, but rubbers and merchandising issues, prominent heretofore on peace-buying flurries, failed to win much following.

Up to the time of release of General Eisenhower's announcement at noon, the market had moved in the sluggish manner of recent sessions. In later proceedings, however, volume expanded to a total of 797,600 shares, largest since August 3, compared with 345,640 Wednesday.

The Associated Press sixty-stock composite closed 2 of a point lower at 49.6. This was the measure of the decline in the utility and industrial averages, but the rail index was down .5 of a point.

Brokers said today's unloading of war stocks was light in comparison with that which followed immediately on the fall of Mussolini late in July. That selling movement, it was recalled, started the market on its first substantial setback since beginning of the long rise in April of last year.

Winnipeg Grain

WINNIPEG, Sept. 8 (CP).—Wheat futures closed 1-8 cent a bushel higher to 7-8 cent lower today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. October finished at 1.36 1-8.

Influenced by the announcement of the Italian armistice, futures broke as much as 1-2 cent a bushel during the session. However, declines were checked in later dealings and some losses were recovered.

Shippers and exporters were credited with taking 1,000,000 bushels from the pit. The purchases were believed to be in connection with business with the United States Commodity Credit Corporation.

Prices were strong in early dealings but liquidation set in after the news of the captulation. Offerings were mostly from American interests.

Cash wheat trade was on a small scale with exporters taking 250,000 bushels of No. 2 Northern.

Demand continued for cash coarse grains and it was reported an estimated 1,250,000 bushels of oats and barley were taken all-rail to Eastern feed dealers.

Rye futures broke with wheat but strengthened in later dealings. Local support and a little outside buying kept values firm.

Country wheat marketings yesterday amounted to 1,617,000 bushels, compared with 714,000 bushels last year.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP). — Stocks closed down moderately from the day's top prices on the Toronto Exchange, but sizeable net gains were held by the gold group. Industrials, base metals and Western oils had losses showing at the end of the market. Turnover was about 1,100,000 shares.

The gold issues spurted forward on the news that Italy was dropping out of the conflict but the gains were trimmed.

The base metals turned heavy. Industrial stocks failed to liven up over the war news and only slight losses predominated. The foods held narrowly to the upside. Utilities also did better.

Home, Calmoht, Anglo-Canadian, Alberta Pacific and British-Dominion were weaker Western oils.

Anne Baxter and Erich Von Stroheim in a Dramatic Scene From the Paramount African Adventure Romance "Five Graves to Cairo," Which Opens Today at the Atlas Theatre.

Exciting Atlas Film Stars Franchot Tone

The story of intrigue and adventure behind the Rommel rout in North Africa is told in Paramount's exciting movie, "Five Graves to Cairo," which starts today at the Atlas. It centres around the suspenseful events in the Hotel Empress of Britain in the town of Sidi Halfaya—events which led up to the recent thrilling victory of the British, American and French forces.

Starring in the picture are Franchot Tone, Anne Baxter, Akim Tamiroff and Erich von Stroheim as Field Marshal Rommel.

DOMINION THEATRE "Stormy Weather," 20th Century-Fox's latest musical extravaganza which ends today at the Dominion Theatre, boasts a new high in entertainment values with 75 per cent of the film's running time devoted to songs, dances and music. Lena Horne, Bill Robinson and Cab Calloway head the outstanding featured cast.

CAPITOL THEATRE Cesar Romero portrays another of those suave two-timers in his newest picture, 20th Century-Fox's top Technicolor musical, "Coney Island," which co-stars Betty Grable and George Montgomery with the tall Latin, now showing at the Capitol Theatre, the film that Romero engaged in a duel of double-crossing with George Montgomery for the hand of la Grable that has seldom, if ever, been matched for hilarity.

Story of War Correspondent Shows at York

Played against a background of bomb-wracked London in September, 1940, "Confirm or Deny," starting today at the York Theatre, is the thrill-packed story of a newspaperman who gives up the scoop of a lifetime for love of a girl.

Don Ameche is starred as the Yankee news scribe, representing a large American syndicate in London. Playing opposite him is Joan Bennett in the role of a courageous and lovely English girl whose loyalty to her country surpasses her love for the Yank.

Others in the cast include Roddy McDowell, John Loder, Raymond Walburn, Eric Blore and Arthur Shields.

Brenda Joyce In Plaza Film of Wartime England

Scheduled to open today at the Plaza Theatre, Republic's "Thumbs Up" is a lilting tale of young love against a setting of one of England's defence plants.

Brenda Joyce has the leading role, that of an American singer trying for a stage break in wartime London. She takes an aircraft job to further her stage ambitions. When a spiteful fellow-worker exposes her phoney war-effort pose, she redeems herself in a highly dramatic climax.

winning her way back into the esteem of her fellow workers and the love of the young Royal Air Force officer—played by Richard Fraser.

At least seventy-five kinds of edible seaweed grow in the waters around Hawaii.

Gay Romantic Musical Comedy Comes to Oak Bay

"The Chocolate Soldier," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical comedy, which opens today at the Oak Bay Theatre, offers Nelson Eddy in a gay, romantic role, and introduces Rise Stevens, a new singing star.

Not only does the picture give Eddy's voice full range with a wide variety of songs, but it gives him a part ideally suited to him, as a young singer and husband determined to find out whether or not his wife loves him and him alone. Their harum-scarum domestic life reaches its climax when he masquerades as his own rival.

For the first time on the screen Eddy sings in two voices, his natural baritone and bass, in playing the dual roles.

Dietrich and Scott Share Top Honors In Cadet Melodrama

Heralded as one of the season's most significant films, "Pittsburgh," comes to the Cadet Theatre today. Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott and John Wayne are co-starred in the important Universal picture which deals melodramatically with the growth of the great Pennsylvania industrial metropolis.

Noted Welsh Baritone Will Be Heard Here On Hilker Programme

Thomas L. Thomas, talented young Welsh baritone, who will be heard here as one of the outstanding events on the Hilker Attractions Greater Artists Series, feels that opera, in this country, should be sung in English as well as in its native tongue. Ample proof of Mr. Thomas' feelings on the subject [illegible] his performance in English (in 1941), of the Rostand "Cyrano de Bergerac."

"If opera is to survive here," says Mr. Thomas, "it should be sung in English. Cyrano is a splendid example of how a dramatic tale can be made effective and thoroughly enjoyable with the music accompaniment helping the development of the tale—underscoring the keenly dramatic moments. I am certain that when the public awakens to the fact that English is a very singable language Cyrano will take its place with such great roles as Rigoletto and Boris. I frankly believe that Cyrano may be the forerunner of a true school of American opera."

Mr. Thomas is unswervingly devoted to this country and to the English language, although he spent his childhood in Wales. Even now, after many years in America, the Welsh in him sticks. In private life, he clings to the unpronounceable middle name "Llyfnwy" though, for professional use he lets it be abbreviated to Thomas L. Thomas.

Logging Arbitration Set for Next Week

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8 (CP).—First arbitration under new amendments to the Provincial Industrial Conciliation Arbitration Act, the case of Lake Logging Co., of Vancouver, will open at Vancouver, September 13.

The arbitration affects eight camps and mills, employing about 1,000 men, in the Cowichan Lake area.

The arbitration board is to decide whether there should be a signed agreement between these employees, members of the International Woodworkers of America, and the employer, the Lake Logging Co.

The board consists of Howard Harmon, Victoria, chairman; Tom Barnard, president of the British Columbia Command of the Canadian Legion, representing employees, and Ralph Plant, Vancouver, timberman, representing the employer.

Rio South Sea Film Filled With Suspense

A thrilling tale of wartime intrigue in the South Seas is "Wings Over the Pacific," Monogram's drama which opens today at the Rio Theatre.

Especially interesting is the fact that the picture marks the first starring appearance of the lovely Inez Cooper, an astonishly beautiful girl borrowed from M.-G.-M. studios for the occasion. Miss Cooper creates a distinctly favorable impression as the only feminine interest in an excellent cast, which includes Edward Norris, Montague Love, Robert Armstrong, Henry Guttman, Ernie Adams and other talented performers.

Jonah ran away from God, but it cost him money and trouble and he nearly lost his life. We can never get away from God, no matter how long a journey we take.

What Today Means

"VIRGO"

If September 9 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., 2:15 to 4:15, and 8:15 to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 to 10:15 a.m., from 6:15 to 8:15, and 10:15 p.m. until midnight.

Those whose birth anniversary is today should resolve to use mistakes of the past as stepping-stones towards a betterment of conditions. It will be advisable to analyze the average person's viewpoint before you condemn it today, for there is apt to be a great deal in its favor. To arrive at logical conclusions it may be necessary to judge existing conditions as a whole, for unusual isolated cases may be without any precedent and cause many erroneous ideas to become influencing factors in determining courses of action. There are times when comparisons may be odious, but today the making of them may prove to be the stimulus needed to arouse someone's consciousness to their own shortcomings. Married and engaged couples, and those whose matrimonial hopes are soaring high, should be prepared to let their sense of justice be reflected in both words and actions, if harmonious conditions are to prevail.

If a woman, and September 9 is your birthday, you are probably much kinder and more thoughtful of other people than you are of yourself. You owe it to yourself to consider your physical and material needs, for if you neglect them you may find yourself handicapped when you would extend to someone a helping hand. The quicker you realize there are few people unselfish enough not to impose on good nature whenever it is possible the better off you will be. As an office manager, business operator, instructress, trained nurse, dietitian, writer, secretary, demonstrator, doctor, lawyer, scientific research worker, or through work closely allied to your country's wartime efforts you should find yourself with an enviable record of accomplishment and making money. Your matrimonial hopes and ambitions will, in all likelihood, be realized.

The child born September 9 is often an intensely emotional youngster, with marked histrionic ability, gracious manner and a likeable personality. An optimist by nature, Virgo's youngster will always be sustained by hope until it attains what it is after.

If a man, and September 9 is your natal day, your strength of character and indomitable will is probably recognized. You should possess the qualities essential for successful leadership. As an actor, theatrical producer, journalist, columnist, fiction writer, business executive, sales representative, contact man, contractor, manufacturer, educator, agriculturist, promoter, soldier, sailor, aviator, or in some artistic pursuit, your efforts should be well rewarded and some of your chief ambitions realized.

CEILING ON TOYS

LONDON, (CP)—After October 1, the top price of any toy, under Government regulation, will be twenty-four shillings, fivepence. Dealers say the ruling means they will have to hold expensive toys until after the war.

ALMOST GOT AWAY

ALVA, Okla. (CP)—Mrs. Carl Mallon caught a ten-pound catfish and had hauled it almost to the bank when the line snapped. She leaped into the water, clamped a clinch on the catfish and brought it to shore.

EARLY SETTLERS

All English sparrows in North America are descendants of eight pairs brought to the United States in 1850.
